Labor May OK End To Wage-Price Controls

Unions Grow Restless On Present Setup

CIO May Give Tipoff At National Parley On Coast Next Week

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 — There were indications Monday that organized labor is growing restive under continued wage controls and might soon be willing to join those who think the wage-price program is outdated.

No decisions have been made yet by top officials of the CIO and the AFL. But the CIO is expected to outline its views at its convention starting next week in Los Angeles.

Union labor has been one of the strongest advocates of the price and wage controls program which went into effect in January, 1951, six months after the Korean war started. Some union spokesmen consistently pleaded for tighter price controls and slacker wage regulations.

Some top labor figures are now believed to feel that if the whole program were scuttled organized labor would profit, that any gain from the right to negotiate wages increases not subject to government modification would outweigh any loss incurred from an upward price movement which might follow an end of price controls.

ONE SIGN of labor's restlessness came last Friday when a labor member of the Wage Stabilization Board asked the board to adopt a resolution recommending that Economic Stabilizer Roger Putnam exempt the West Coast shipping industry from all wage controls.

This motion, made after the WSB refused to approve a 5 per cent wage hike agreed to between the Pacific Maritime Association and the AFL Sailors Union, was defeated by industry and public members of the WSB. All labor members present voted for it.

Had the motion been adopted, requests for the exemption of other workers from wage control would likely have followed.

High government officials are known, too, to be examining the possible effects of eliminating wage and price controls despite the fact they do not yet feel that inflationary pressures have disappeared.

Putnam is now studying an appeal from the soft coal industry and John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, to overrule the Wage Stabilization Board and approve the full $1.90 daily wage boost the industry agreed to give 375,000 bituminous miners.

WSB CUT THE bituminous raise to $1.50, contending that any more would damage the anti-inflation program.

Wage and price controls are now due to expire April 30. Barring a major change in the international situation, they are not expected to be continued, at least in their present form.

If he wanted to, President Truman could stop the wage and price controls program dead. He has that power under the Defense Production Act, but no one is predicting he will use it.

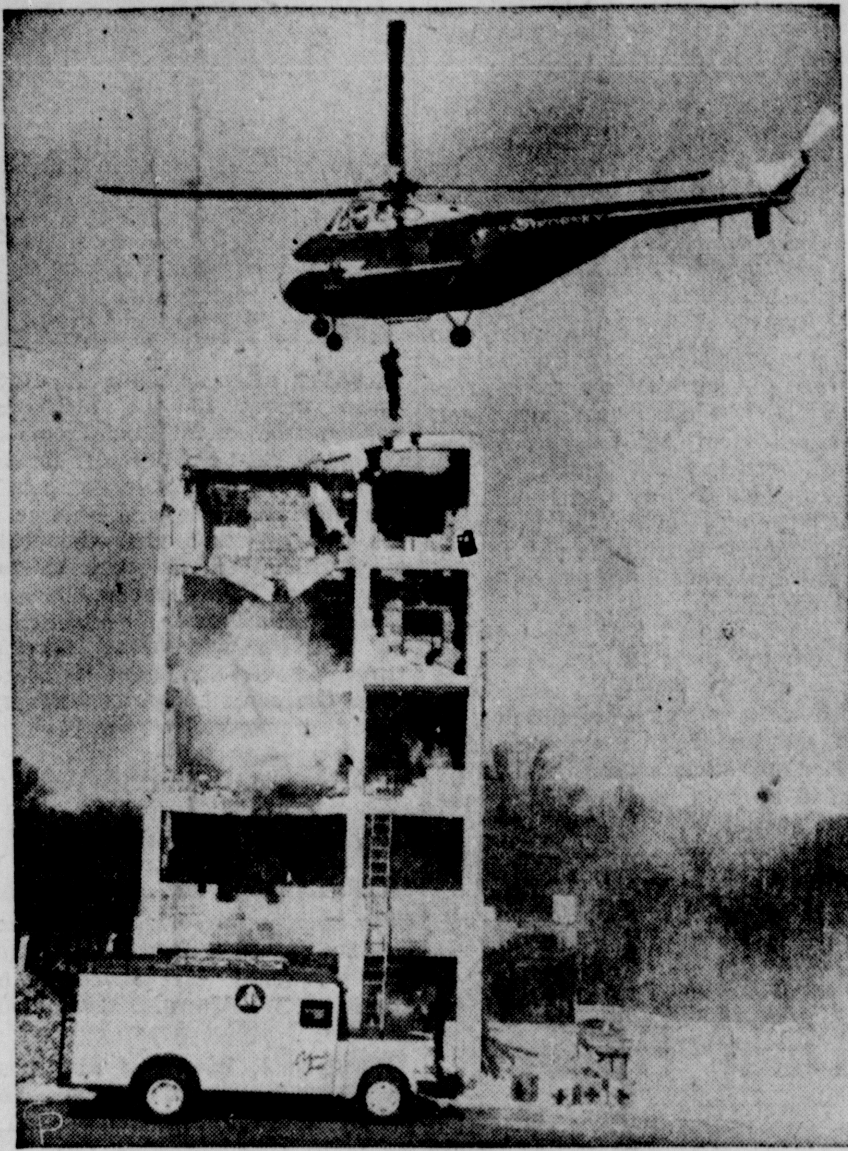

Many Areas Pleased With Chilly Rains

CINCINNATI, Nov. 10 — The East, the South and the Ohio Valley were chilled and wet Monday, and loved it. General rains (snow in New England) gave at least temporary relief from the month-long plague of forest and brush fires that have blackened millions of acres in the eastern half of the nation.

For some of the timberland it was the first important precipitation in more than two months. The rains, which were continuing in many sections, will allow exhausted forest rangers to rest. National Guardsmen drafted for emergency duty and civilian volunteers to go home. Hunting seasons will be restored in several states that banned them because of the fire hazard.

"The war is over," said Tennessee's Adj. Gen. Sam Wallace who will send 2,000 guardsmen fire-fighters home Monday. Memphis got 1.67 inches of rain Sunday. "We're in pretty good shape," said an Arkansas forester, after his state got rainfall ranging up to 2.67 inches.

Continuing rain was expected to snuff out fires in Georgia which were still serious Sunday.

One Killed, Five Hurt Seriously In Four-Car Crash On Route 104

One man was killed and five others seriously hurt Sunday afternoon in a four-car crash at Routes 104 and 762, about 15 miles northwest of Circleville.

Killed in a head-on crash of two of the cars was C. Herman Graves, 59, of Ray.

Seriously injured were Marvin Graves, 17, of Ray, his son; William Ball, 24, of Columbus, driver of the car in which they rode; Mrs. Evelyn Beal, 22, of Columbus, driver of the other car; and Larry Platt, 10, and Frances Platt, 12, of Portsmouth, passengers in the Beal car.

Deputy James Diltz and State Highway Patrolman Bob Greene said the accident happened at about 3 p. m. Sunday at the intersection as an auto operated south by Darnell Wickliff, 19, of Grove City, slowed to make a turn.

DILTZ SAID the southbound auto operated by Mrs. Beal struck the rear of the slowing Wickliff car and careened to the left, directly into the path of the northbound Ball car.

The two cars smashed head-on. The Wickliff auto, meanwhile, swerved to the right and struck the front end of an auto stopped on Route 762, operated by Harold Hoover, 27, of Commercial Point.

The autos which struck head-on were completely demolished. The other two cars suffered minor damage.

Dr. Ned Griner, county coroner, said Graves, who had been riding in the front seat of the Ball car, died of a crushed chest.

Ball suffered fractured ribs and a fractured nose, while young Graves, sitting in the rear seat, suffered a fractured jaw and lacerated chin.

Mrs. Beal, who was taking the two Platt children back to their home in Portsmouth, suffered a lacerated left leg, chin and head and abrasions of the body. She was

African Rioting Still Spreading

DURBAN, South Africa, Nov. 10 — Negroes and police kept up a sporadic fight here Monday in a continuation of weekend riots which brought death to at least 24 persons in two major cities of this race-divided country.

Two white persons, one a Catholic nun, and at least eight Negroes were killed Sunday in shooting and wild skirmishes between police and Negro demonstrators in East London, a native suburb of Durban. Six government and mission buildings were burned. Fire from police rifles and automatic weapons on Saturday killed 14 Negroes and wounded 39 in the diamond center of Kimberley.

"The war is over," said Tennessee's Adj. Gen. Sam Wallace who will send 2,000 guardsmen fire-fighters home Monday. Memphis got 1.67 inches of rain Sunday. "We're in pretty good shape," said an Arkansas forester, after his state got rainfall ranging up to 2.67 inches.

MILE-WIDE ISLE 'GONE' AFTER 'H-BOMB' BLAST

Phil Murray, CIO Chieftain, Dead At 66

Respected Labor Boss Rose From Immigrant Scots Mine Worker

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 10 — Phil Murray, who rose from an immigrant Scots mine boy to become head of the CIO and one of the world's most powerful and respected labor leaders, died Sunday of a heart attack.

At 66 a veteran of half a century's work in labor's cause, he was stricken in his sleep in San Francisco's fashionable Mark Hopkins Hotel.

His wife Elizabeth awoke to find him sprawled on the floor beside his bed. Twenty minutes later a physician pronounced him dead.

Funeral services will be held Thursday in Brookline, a suburb of Pittsburgh.

His death came as a shock to friends, associates, and even his antagonists in some of the bitterest battles between management and labor.

Telegrams of condolence poured in from all sections of the country, from President Truman and high-ranking government officials, from William Green of the AFL and John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers, from Ben Fairless of U. S. Steel and Ben Moreell of Jones and Laughlin.

AS FOR MURRAY'S successor, much of the speculation is centered on two men—Allan S. Haywood, veteran CIO executive vice president, and Walter Reuther, United Auto Workers president.

The son of a miners' union official, Murray was born in Blantyre, Scotland, in 1886. He was introduced to unionism at the age of 6, when his father took him to a local meeting.

At 10 he went to work in the coal mines. He was only 16, and making 30 cents a day, when his family emigrated to the United States, settling in the bituminous coal fields of Western Pennsylvania. He became a naturalized citizen in 1911.

His rise was the familiar story, but the rare fact, of the immigrant lad who made good.

He saved his money for a correspondence course, worked all day and studied most of the night in his self-education, punched his way into labor prominence when he pummeled a company weighmaster for a dishonest weight.

The punch got him fired, but his fellow workers walked out with him and made him a local officer of the United Mine Workers.

It was the last time he used his fists to win a point. Thereafter, he relied on a native cannyness and a rare gift for persuasion.

"The U. S. has lost a great citizen as well as a great labor leader," Fairless said of Murray's death. "While differing with his point of view at times, I always had respect for Phillip Murray as a Christian gentleman."

Armistice Day Closings Told

All banks and postoffices in Circleville and Pickaway County will be closed Tuesday in observance of Armistice Day.

Also closing will be the offices in Pickaway County Courthouse and Circleville's City Hall.

Local schools, however, will remain in operation for the day, although special assembly programs are planned in most of the buildings.

Circleville's business houses and industries are expected to remain open for the day, along with the public library.

Soviet Calls For New Panel To Settle Korea Conflict

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Nov. 10 — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky Monday called for creation of a UN commission on which Russia, the U. S. and Communist China would be included to settle the Korean war.

Other countries Vishinsky suggested for the commission were Britain, France, India, Burma, Switzerland, Czechoslovakia, North Korea and South Korea.

Vishinsky's call came after he warned that adoption by the UN of an American resolution backing up Allied negotiators at Panmunjom inevitably would lead to collapse of truce talks and extension of the war.

Vishinsky told the UN's 60-nation Political Committee that the U. S. knew in advance these terms would be rejected by the Chinese and North Korean commands.

U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman sat nearby as the Kremlin's top diplomatic spokesman claimed the resolution they backed as a way to peace could only lead to further war.

The resolution, sponsored by the West's Big Three and 18 other countries, notes with approval the UN Command's refusal to send back Communist war prisoners who say they do not want to go; it also issues an appeal to the Chinese Communists and North Koreans to agree to these terms.

VISHINSKY charged the U. S. was not interested in ending the war, but wanted to keep it going and expand it in order to gain control of the world and increase the profits of "American billionaires."

He said that, as part of this plan to keep the war going, the resolution was submitted. The U. S. knew, he said, the Chinese and North Koreans would not agree to it and this "would inevitably lead to the collapse of the talks at Panmunjom and the protraction of the war."

The Soviet foreign minister said the U. S. resolution confirmed Washington did not want

Coat Hanger Saves Youth's Life From Slug

CINCINNATI, Nov. 10 — Bob Henderson, 17, has a small burn on his stomach. Police said it was caused by a pistol shot.

The bullet, Henderson said, traveled only two feet, but there were four pieces of dry cleaning and a coat hanger between him and the pistol.

Police held Thomas Baldwin, 39, for investigation. They said he had been drinking. Young Henderson told police Baldwin shot at him Sunday night without warning in a hallway in Henderson's apartment house.

The .32 caliber bullet hit the clothing the youth was holding, passed through it and hit a wire coat hanger dead center. The slug threaded itself on the wire and knocked the hanger out of the suit it was supporting without damaging the suit.

The hanger, twisted into a cork-screw, punctured Henderson's clothing and burned his skin, the heat apparently coming from friction caused by the bullet's impact.

He found the bullet in his right trouser pocket.

Mexican Plans To Speak Russian

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Nov. 10 — Mexican Delegate Luciano Joublane-Rivas was to deliver a half-hour speech in Russian in the UN Budget Committee Monday.

The stunt is aimed at getting Russian support for a proposal that Spanish be made a working language of the UN Economic and Social Council.

peace through negotiation, but was interested only in a "military decision — victory at all costs."

Vishinsky then turned to a statement by British Minister of State Selwyn Lloyd that the UN would not repatriate prisoners at the point of a bayonet.

This problem does not exist, Vishinsky claimed. The real problem, he declared, is that the "American command resorted to bayonets to extract from the prisoners a refusal to be repatriated."

He declared the Geneva Convention on the treatment of prisoners of war insists no pressure be put on prisoners and that all of them be returned when an armistice or peace is reached.

Schuman and Eden arrived here over the weekend, having delayed their coming until after the conclusion of the American elections. The Assembly has been holding up completion of its member nations' general statements of policy, the first item of business, until their arrival. Schuman was to make France's declaration at a session late Monday. Eden is on the program for Tuesday.

Reports Says Ike To Confer With Top GOPsters On Policy

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 — President-elect Eisenhower is reported planning a conference, before going to Korea, with GOP legislative leaders in an effort to line up a Republican program for early action in Congress.

Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio said over the weekend he expects to meet with Eisenhower "on the legislative program" before the general takes off on a Korea inspection trip, possibly late this month.

Taft added he intends to remain in the Senate for the next four years, thus scotching any speculation that he might get a cabinet appointment.

The statement indicated not only that the President-elect wants his party to be ready to move with the legislative ball as soon as he is inaugurated Jan. 20, but also that Taft has no intention of giving up his Senate leadership role.

Taft has headed the Senate Republican Policy Committee, top GOP job on his side of the Capitol, for years.

AND IT HAS been the general assumption that Rep. Joseph Martin of Massachusetts would become speaker of the House, as he was in the Republican 80th Congress of 1947-48.

But friends have been talking about booming Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, majority leader of the 80th Congress, for the speakership. Halleck was an Eisenhower supporter before the Chicago Republican National Convention while

UN Soldiers Rout Reds Off 2 Major Hills

SEOUL, Nov. 10 — Allied infantrymen in 11 hours of savage close-quarter fighting Monday drove 1,300 North Korean Reds off two strategic hills on Korea's eastern front.

The Reds attacked in waves Sunday night behind a curtain of 4,000 rounds of artillery and mortar fire. They captured the crest of Anchor Hill at 6 a. m. and smashed to the top of another hill to the south at 6:25.

The UN troops counterattacked almost immediately. They stormed back to the top of the second hill in just 15 minutes.

The Reds fought with bitter determination from the top of Anchor, but the Allies were not to be denied. They reached the top at 8 a. m. and closed with the Reds.

Allied warplanes swooped low and pounded the Reds with bombs and searing jetted gasoline.

The U. S. Eighth Army said Anchor's crest was secured at 9:30 a. m. Elsewhere little action was reported along the 155-mile ground front.

Gen. James A. Van Fleet will leave as Eighth Army commander within 60 days. It has been hoped on good authority that Van Fleet's next assignment probably hinged on conversations with President-elect Eisenhower when he visits Korea.

Martin preferred Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

If Eisenhower elects to take a hand in any fight that might develop between Martin and Halleck, his relation with the congressional leadership may be tested even before his inauguration.

In any forthcoming conference of the general with the leaders, Taft and Martin may be found on the side of those urging Eisenhower to use strong measures in Korea, including the employment of Chinese Nationalist troops from Formosa, if the President-elect finds there is no practical hope of agreement with the Communists on an armistice.

Pike County Farmers Gripe At Land Price

WAVERLY, Nov. 10 — Farmers are complaining the government isn't paying them enough for their land in the Pike County atom plant site. The government says it is.

Main source of the complaints is that private purchasers are paying much higher prices for land on the fringe of the plant site.

The government offered one farmer $89.50 an acre for his land. A neighbor, whose land was outside the plant site, got $3,260 an acre from the Norfolk & Western Railway Co., which is building a spur into the plant. That's an extreme case, but the farmers cite it in their complaints.

"If the government is going to spend $1.2 billion for this atom plant, why can't it be a little more lenient with us farmers?" is the typical argument.

Julian Rogers, chief of the Army Corps of Engineers office in Waverly, says that isn't the question. The engineers, as land agents or the Atomic Energy Commission, are required to buy the land at what it was worth Aug. 12, when the location of the atom plant was announced, Rogers said.

He said eight tracts have been bought at prices ranging from $122 to $295 an acre. The average price per acre was $223, he said.

The land was appraised by local men who were approved by 90 per cent of the farmers in the area, Rogers pointed out.

Eye-Witness Sends Data To Lima Relatives

180-Degree Heat Felt 30 Miles Away; Test Said Made Oct. 1

LIMA, Nov. 10 — A mile-wide island actually disappeared in a recent explosion at Eniwetok in the Pacific, an eye-witness wrote Lima relatives.

The unidentified eye-witness did not say he watched the first explosion of a hydrogen bomb but the Lima News, which published the letter, said "it is apparent that the explosion he felt and saw was America's first experiment with a hydrogen bomb."

The man wrote he watched the explosion from 30.4 miles away, but that heat from the bomb was 180 degrees when it reached him. He said flame two miles wide shot five miles into the air.

A 20-mile-wide mushroom cloud drew thousands of tons of earth into the sky. It looked like a giant cauliflower, the man said.

"About 15 minutes after the shot time," the man wrote, "the island on which the bomb had been set off started to burn and it turned a brilliant red. It burned for over six hours, gradually becoming smaller."

"Within six hours, an island that once had palm trees and coconuts was now nothing. A mile-wide island had actually disappeared."

"I was watching through binoculars. At first I didn't notice but when I saw a huge chunk just seem to melt away, after that I watched closely."

The writer drew a picture of the shape of the cloud and sent it with the letter.

The account published in the Lima News closely followed the details first given in a story in the Los Angeles Examiner last Saturday, but was somewhat less detailed as to the actual appearance of the explosion.

"It was even close to being beautiful," wrote the man in his letter to Lima.

"Well, 'Boomday' is all over," the man began. "And, believe me I wouldn't have missed it for one million dollars. It was really a very wonderful thing and I will try to put it in words."

"I'll give you a run-down in diary form."

"1 October 1952 0600 all hands muster. 0630 all personnel topside. Must wear protective clothing. 0700 shot time is now 15 minutes away. 0705 we were told where the explosion was to be, and to turn away from this point and cover our eyes with our arms. Ten seconds after the shot we would be

Kingston Man Held For Jury

Preston Beeman, 41, of Kingston, was placed on $1,000 bond Saturday in the court of Magistrate Oscar Root for Pickaway County grand jury action on an accusation of second degree manslaughter.

Beeman was held for the grand jury in connection with the traffic death last Wednesday of Kenneth Eugene Huston, 20, of near Jackson.

Huston was struck by an auto at about 8:10 p. m. last Wednesday as he was rolling a flat tire along Route 23, about four miles north of Circleville.

The auto which struck Huston failed to stop. Later, however, Beeman was arrested just south of Columbus by the state highway patrol for drunken driving.

FOLLOWING arrest there, he was haled into Columbus municipal court, where the hearing on the accusation of drunken driving was continued until Nov. 17.

Following Saturday's hearing before Magistrate Root, Beeman was freed when the $1,000 bond was paid.

TWO TWO Platt children, also riding in the front seat, were seriously injured.

Larry, 10, suffered a severed right toe; fractured right leg, possible skull fracture, chest injuries and possible internal injuries.

His sister, Frances, 12, suffered a fractured right shoulder, possible fracture of her left hand and a fractured right leg.

Ball and the two Platt children were taken into Mt. Carmel hospital, while Mrs. Beal and young Graves were taken into Mercy hospital.

Israel's First President Dies At Age Of 77

REHOVOT, Israel, Nov. 10 — Dr. Chaim Weizmann, 77-year-old father of Israel, will be buried Tuesday near his home here in the "promised land" he helped build and led as its first president.

Messages of sympathy for the sorrowing young nation poured in from world leaders, including President Truman, Queen Elizabeth II and UN Secretary-General Trygve Lie, following Dr. Weizmann's death from a heart attack Sunday.

The president's mansion, on the coastal plain 10 miles from Tel Aviv, was open to the public Monday. A solemn line of Israelites, some crying openly and some quietly chanting Hebrew prayers, passed the black-draped catafalque on which the body of world Zionism's greatest leader lay in state.

Special trains brought pilgrims to pay their last respects. In broadcasts Monday of America's tribute, the people of Israel heard President Truman's statement that "mankind has lost an able leader." Truman said Weizmann's "devotion to the establishment of a homeland for Jewish people, both before its realization and as the head of the new government, has brought him the respect and gratitude of millions. He was a man of wisdom and I was honored to know him."

Britain's Queen Elizabeth messaged her "deep regret," and Prime Minister Churchill said, "The world has lost a distinguished citizen and Israel a faithful son."

Local schools, however, will remain in operation for the day, although special assembly programs are planned in most of the buildings.

Circleville's business houses and industries are expected to remain open for the day, along with the public library.

Ohio Shouts Loud 'No' On Convention

COLUMBUS, Nov. 10 — Ohioans voted nearly two-to-one in Tuesday's election against holding a convention to consider changing Ohio's constitution.

Complete unofficial vote reported today by Secretary of State Ted W. Brown was 1,964,682 against the convention and 1,018,174 for. The constitution provides for a vote on the question every 20 years. Voters also turned it down in 1932. The last convention was held in 1912.

Also closing will be the offices in Pickaway County Courthouse and Circleville's City Hall.

Local schools, however, will remain in operation for the day, although special assembly programs are planned in most of the buildings.

Circleville's business houses and industries are expected to remain open for the day, along with the public library.

Soviet Calls For New Panel To Settle Korea Conflict

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Nov. 10 — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky Monday called for creation of a UN commission on which Russia, the U. S. and Communist China would be included to settle the Korean war.

Other countries Vishinsky suggested for the commission were Britain, France, India, Burma, Switzerland, Czechoslovakia, North Korea and South Korea.

Vishinsky's call came after he warned that adoption by the UN of an American resolution backing up Allied negotiators at Panmunjom inevitably would lead to collapse of truce talks and extension of the war.

Vishinsky told the UN's 60-nation Political Committee that the U. S. knew in advance these terms would be rejected by the Chinese and North Korean commands.

U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman sat nearby as the Kremlin's top diplomatic spokesman claimed the resolution they backed as a way to peace could only lead to further war.

The resolution, sponsored by the West's Big Three and 18 other countries, notes with approval the United Command's refusal to send back Communist war prisoners who say they do not want to go; it also issues an appeal to the Chinese Communists and North Koreans to agree to these terms.

VISHINSKY charged the U. S. was not interested in ending the war, but wanted to keep it going and expand it in order to gain control of the world and increase the profits of "American billionaires."

He said that, as part of this plan to keep the war going, the resolution was submitted. The U. S. knew, he said, the Chinese and North Koreans would not agree to it and this "would inevitably lead to the collapse of the talks at Panmunjom and the protraction of the war."

The Soviet foreign minister said the U. S. resolution confirmed Washington did not want

Coat Hanger Saves Youth's Life From Slug

CINCINNATI, Nov. 10 — Bob Henderson, 17, has a small burn on his stomach. Police said it was caused by a pistol shot.

The bullet, Henderson said, traveled only two feet, but there were four pieces of dry cleaning and a coat hanger between him and the pistol.

Police held Thomas Baldwin, 39, for investigation. They said he had been drinking. Young Henderson told police Baldwin shot at him Sunday night without warning in a hallway in Henderson's apartment house.

The .32 caliber bullet hit the clothing the youth was holding, passed through it and hit a wire coat hanger dead center. The slug threaded itself on the wire and knocked the hanger out of the suit it was supporting without damaging the suit.

The hanger, twisted into a cork-screw, punctured Henderson's clothing and burned his skin, the heat apparently coming from friction caused by the bullet's impact.

"He found the bullet in his right trouser pocket."

Mexican Plans To Speak Russian

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Nov. 10 — Mexican Delegate Luciano Joublane-Rivas was to deliver a half-hour speech in Russian in the UN Budget Committee Monday.

The stunt is aimed at getting Russian support for a proposal that Spanish be made a working language of the UN Economic and Social Council.

peace through negotiation, but was interested only in a "military decision — victory at all costs."

Vishinsky then turned to a statement by British Minister of State Selwyn Lloyd that the UN would not repatriate prisoners at the point of a bayonet.

This problem does not exist, Vishinsky claimed. The real problem, he declared, is that the "American command resorted to bayonets to extract from the prisoners a refusal to be repatriated."

He declared the Geneva Convention on the treatment of prisoners of war insists no pressure be put on prisoners and that all of them be returned when an armistice or peace is reached.

Schuman and Eden arrived here over the weekend, having delayed their coming until after the conclusion of the American elections. The Assembly has been holding up completion of its member nations' general statements of policy, the first item of business, until their arrival. Schuman was to make France's declaration at a session late Monday. Eden is on the program for Tuesday.

Reports Says Ike To Confer With Top GOPsters On Policy

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 — President-elect Eisenhower is reported planning a conference, before going to Korea, with GOP legislative leaders in an effort to line up a Republican program for early action in Congress.

Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio said over the weekend he expects to meet with Eisenhower "on the legislative program" before the general takes off on a Korea inspection trip, possibly late this month.

Taft added he intends to remain in the Senate for the next four years, thus scotching any speculation that he might get a cabinet appointment.

The statement indicated not only that the President-elect wants his party to be ready to move with the legislative ball as soon as he is inaugurated Jan. 20, but also that Taft has no intention of giving up his Senate leadership role.

Taft has headed the Senate Republican Policy Committee, top GOP job on his side of the Capitol, for years.

AND IT HAS been the general assumption that Rep. Joseph Martin of Massachusetts would become speaker of the House, as he was in the Republican 80th Congress of 1947-48.

But friends have been talking about booming Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, majority leader of the 80th Congress, for the speakership. Halleck was an Eisenhower supporter before the Chicago Republican National Convention while

SEOUL, Nov. 10 — Allied infantrymen in 11 hours of savage close-quarter fighting Monday drove 1,300 North Korean Reds off two strategic hills on Korea's east front.

The Reds attacked in waves Sunday night behind a curtain of 4,000 rounds of artillery and mortar fire. They captured the crest of Anchor Hill at 6 a. m. and smashed to the top of another hill to the south at 6:25.

The UN troops counterattacked almost immediately. They stormed back to the top of the second hill in just 15 minutes.

The Reds fought with bitter determination from the top of Anchor, but the Allies were not to be denied. They reached the top at 8 a. m. and closed with the Reds.

Allied warplanes swooped low and pounded the Reds with bombs and searing jetted gasoline.

The U. S. Eighth Army said Anchor's crest was secured at 9:30 a. m. Elsewhere little action was reported along the 155-mile ground front.

Pike County Farmers Gripe At Land Price

WAVERLY, Nov. 10 — Farmers are complaining the government isn't paying them enough for their land in the Pike County atom plant site. The government says it is.

Main source of the complaints is that private purchasers are paying much higher prices for land on the fringe of the plant site.

The government offered one farmer $89.50 an acre for his land. A neighbor, whose land was outside the plant site, got $3,260 an acre from the Norfolk & Western Railway Co., which is building a spur into the plant. That's an extreme case, but the farmers cite it in their complaints.

"If the government is going to spend $1.2 billion for this atom plant, why can't it be a little more lenient with us farmers?" is the typical argument.

Julian Rogers, chief of the Army Corps of Engineers office in Waverly, says that isn't the question. The engineers, as land agents of the Atomic Energy Commission, are required to buy the land at what it was worth Aug. 12, when the location of the atom plant was announced, Rogers said.

He said eight tracts have been bought at prices ranging from $122 to $295 an acre. The average price per acre was $223, he said.

The land was appraised by local men who were approved by 90 per cent of the farmers in the area, Rogers pointed out.

23 Persons Killed In Ohio Mishaps

COLUMBUS, Nov. 10 — Two traffic accidents claimed four lives each in a grim weekend on Ohio's highways.

At least 9 persons were killed in traffic mishaps and at least four others died in miscellaneous accidents.

Dog Causes Death

BUTLER, Pa., Nov. 10 — Charles C. King, 65, of East Palestine, O., swerved his car Saturday to avoid striking a dog. The car overturned, killing King and seriously injuring his wife, Mae, 61.

Eye-Witness Sends Data To Lima Relatives

180-Degree Heat Felt 30 Miles Away; Test Said Made Oct. 1

LIMA, Nov. 10 — A mile-wide island actually disappeared in a recent explosion at Eniwetok in the Pacific, an eye-witness wrote Lima relatives.

The unidentified eye-witness did not say he watched the first explosion of a hydrogen bomb but the Lima News, which published the letter, said "it is apparent that the explosion he felt and saw was America's first experiment with a hydrogen bomb."

The man wrote he watched the explosion from 30.4 miles away, but that heat from the bomb was 180 degrees when it reached him. He said flame two miles wide shot five miles into the air.

A 20-mile-wide mushroom cloud drew thousands of tons of earth into the sky. It looked like a giant cauliflower, the man said.

"About 15 minutes after the shot time," the man wrote, "the island on which the bomb had been set off started to burn and it turned a brilliant red. It burned for over 10 minutes, gradually becoming smaller."

"Within six hours, an island that once had palm trees and coconuts was now nothing. A mile-wide island had actually disappeared."

"I was watching through binoculars. At first I didn't notice but when I saw a huge chunk just seem to melt away, after that I watched closely."

The writer drew a picture of the shape of the cloud and sent it with the letter.

The account published in the Lima News closely followed the details first given in a story in the Los Angeles Examiner last Saturday, but was somewhat less detailed as to the actual appearance of the explosion.

"It was even close to being beautiful," wrote the man in his letter to Lima.

"Well, 'Boonday' is all over," the man began. "And, believe me I wouldn't have missed it for one million dollars. It was really a very wonderful thing and I will try to put it in words."

"I'll give you a run-down in diary form."

"1 October 1952 0600 all hands muster. 0630 all personnel topside. Must wear protective clothing. 0700 shot time is now 15 minutes away. 0705 we were told where the explosion was to be, and to turn away from this point and cover our eyes with our arms. Ten seconds after the shot we would be

Kingston Man Held For Jury

Preston Beeman, 41, of Kingston, was placed on $1,000 bond Saturday in the court of Magistrate Oscar Root for Pickaway County grand jury action on an accusation of second degree manslaughter.

Beeman was held for the grand jury in connection with the traffic death last Wednesday of Kenneth Eugene Huston, 20, of near Jackson.

Huston was struck by an auto at about 8:10 p. m. last Wednesday as he was rolling a flat tire along Route 23, about four miles north of Circleville.

The auto which struck Huston failed to stop. Later, however, Beeman was arrested just south of Columbus by the state highway patrol for drunken driving.

FOLLOWING arrest there, he was haled into Columbus municipal court, where the hearing on the accusation of drunken driving was continued until Nov. 17.

Following Saturday's hearing before Magistrate Root, Beeman was freed when the $1,000 bond was paid.

Lodge-Dodge Team Assured High Rank In Ike Command

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 10 — (AP)—President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower's choice of Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge and Detroit banker Joseph M. Dodge for key pre-inauguration assignments appear to assure them major posts in the new Republican administration.

Eisenhower Sunday named the Massachusetts GOP senator his liaison man to work with the expiring Truman administration in all federal agencies except one. To the Budget Bureau as his personal representative the general appointed Dodge, a Republican with a long record of fiscal and other service in the outgoing Democratic regime.

The team of Lodge and Dodge, named after they and other GOP leaders conferred with the President-elect at his vacation headquarters, goes to work this week. Lodge said he will start his liaison assignment Friday, working out of his Washington Senate office. Dodge reports to the Budget Bureau Wednesday.

BOTH MEN hope to have preliminary reports ready for Eisenhower when he confers in the White House next week with President Truman. That session, suggested by Truman, will deal with international and domestic problems as they relate to the change in administrations.

Truman also had urged Eisenhower to name liaison men. The President singled out the Defense and State Departments and the Budget Bureau, but Eisenhower designated Dodge to work with all federal agencies "where such liaison may prove useful in facilitating the transfer of public business from the old to the new administration."

Lodge, defeated last Tuesday in his bid for a new Senate term, is regarded as a likely Eisenhower choice for a cabinet post. He has been mentioned for secretary of defense or secretary of state and the interim assignment of the general gave him underscored the likelihood of a major post later.

Eisenhower associates said there are strong indications Dodge will be named director of the budget and that the job will take on more importance from a policy-making standpoint than under the Democrats.

A significant feature of Sunday's conference at Eisenhower's vacation retreat at the Augusta National Golf Club was the presence of Sen. Eugene Millikin of Colorado, who supported Sen. Robert A. Taft.

Clean Eggs Better Than Cleaned Eggs

A clean egg stays fresh longer and brings a higher price than a soiled egg that has been cleaned.

Any type of cleaning—either wet or dry—lowers the protective quality of the shell and hastens spoilage.

These observations were made during a project in which thousands of eggs were cleaned and graded and compared with top-quality clean ones.

Dry-cleaning by a brush or emery cloth had less effect on the keeping quality of the egg, but was slower, less efficient and resulted in greater breakage than wet-cleaning methods.

The need for ample nests, clean nesting material, frequent gathering of eggs and dry laying houses to cut down the number of soiled eggs was emphasized.

There's a difference between clean eggs and cleaned eggs, and that difference spells greater profits for producers.

Lodge-Dodge Team Assured High Rank In Ike Command

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 10 — President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower's choice of Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge and Detroit banker Joseph M. Dodge for key pre-inauguration assignments appear to assure them major posts in the new Republican administration.

Eisenhower Sunday named the Massachusetts GOP senator his liaison man to work with the existing Truman administration in all federal agencies except one.

of Ohio for the GOP presidential nomination.

THE COLORADO senator has been mentioned as a possible choice for secretary of the Treasury, but he said here over the weekend he doesn't want the job.

Others who met with Eisenhower were retired Gen. Lucius D. Clay, former military governor of Germany and now chairman of the board of Continental Can Corp., Herbert Brownell, Jr., who managed New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's presidential campaign in 1948 and who played a major behind-the-scenes role in Eisenhower's campaign; Clifford Roberts, New York investment banker who has been playing golf with the general; James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower's press secretary, and Thomas Stephens, his appointment secretary.

Lodge and Dodge said cabinet appointments were not discussed and that they had no idea whether they might be asked to stay on in the new administration.

Clay, asked whether he would take a cabinet assignment, replied with a grin: "I haven't been offered one and I don't expect to be offered one." He added that he was "just a friendly listener" at the conference.

Brownell, asked what his role had been, would say only, "I was a participant."

able to look with no damage to our eyes. 715 shot time:

"WE DIDN'T know the explosion had taken place but within five seconds we felt the heat waves in our back. It was hot, about 180 degrees when it hit us and we were 30.4 miles away from dead center. Thirteen seconds after shot time I looked up. I could hardly believe my eyes. A flame about two miles wide was shooting five miles into the air.

"This lasted for about seven to 10 seconds. Then we saw thousands of tons of earth being drawn straight into the sky. Then the cloud began to form about 20 seconds after the shot. Then we heard the sound of the explosion and even at 30.4 miles it made my ears ring.

"By now the mushroom cloud had taken place and shape. It was about a mile wide at the bottom and at least 20 miles wide at the top. The captain told us it was at least 15 miles straight up into the sky.

"The actual shape of it was like a mushroom and a funnel, or even better it looked like a head of cauliflower—lots of white smoke with three rings of smoke. Each ring was bigger. It was even close to being beautiful."

The clouds stayed shaped for about 10 minutes. Then started to break up and dissolve. During this period we could see parts of trees and lots of earth being dropped into the water and back on the island.

"About 15 minutes after shot time the island on which the bomb had been set off started to burn and it turned a brilliant red. It burned for over six hours, gradually becoming smaller. Within six hours an island that once had palm trees and coconuts was now nothing. A mile-wide island had actually disappeared. I was watching through binoculars. At first I did not notice but then I saw a huge chunk just seem to melt away. After that I watched closely.

"I'm going to try to draw a picture so it may help you some. I hope I have made myself clear. Now I'm going to close and turn artist. Be good and write soon."

Clean Eggs Better Than Cleaned Eggs

A clean egg stays fresh longer and brings a higher price than a soiled egg that has been cleaned.

Any type of cleaning—either wet or dry—lowers the protective quality of the shell and hastens spoilage.

These observations were made during a project in which thousands of eggs were cleaned and graded and compared with top-quality clean ones.

Dry-cleaning by a brush or emery cloth had less effect on the keeping quality of the egg, but was slower, less efficient and resulted in greater breakage than wet-cleaning methods.

The need for ample nests, clean nesting material, frequent gathering of eggs and dry laying houses to cut down the number of soiled eggs was emphasized.

There's a difference between clean eggs and cleaned eggs and that difference spells greater profits for producers.

Clifton, Penn To Aid Speakman In Drive For Sidewalk Repairs

Two city councilmen joined Service Director Dewey Speakman Monday in active leadership of the drive to enforce repairs on Circleville's faulty sidewalks.

Councilman Harold Clifton, head of council's service committee, and Councilman Richard Penn, of the laws and claims committee, said they would give full support to help spark the campaign. Speakman has notified Circleville property owners that sidewalks will have to be repaired within a reasonable length of time. If they fail to do so, he warned, the city will do the job and put costs on the owner's tax duplicate.

Clifton and Penn indicated the next step, planned in the immediate future, will be to have a preliminary survey made of city streets. Penn emphasized the survey will be made all over the community and not in selected districts.

County's Soil Conservation Election Set

An election will be held by Pickaway County Soil Conservation committee at 7 p. m. Dec. 3 to name two supervisors to fill the expiring three-year terms of Paul Peck of Perry Township and Dr. Wells Wilson of Pickaway Township.

Both men have been nominated for another term in office.

Other nominees are: Paul Hay of Harrison Township; Louis Hill of Darby Township; Joe Peters of Walnut Township; and Clarence Maxson of Salter Creek Township.

The election will be held in Monroe Township high school. Only landowners of the county will be eligible to cast ballots.

POLLS WILL also be open at the offices of Pickaway County Agent Larry Best from 8:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. on the day of the election.

Additional nominations will be accepted, either from the floor on the night of the election or by petition submitted one week prior to election with the signatures of 25 landowners.

Election day will be climaxed by the Soil Conservation Service committee's annual banquet. A chicken dinner will be served by the Star Grange.

Among highlights of the program, announced by Don Archer, farm planner for the county Soil Conservation unit, will be an address by Dr. Jonathan Forman of Columbus. Prizes will be awarded during the program to the three winners of the county Soil Conservation essay contest.

100 On Hand For Ceremony

Work started Monday on the $300,000 building and remodeling program at Bergher hospital.

First actual work Monday followed a special ground-breaking ceremony Sunday afternoon at the hospital.

Approximately 100 persons were on hand for the ceremony, in which the hospital board was introduced along with representatives of various groups and organizations which aided in the project.

Completion of the new building program is expected in one year. Plans are underway now, however, to place a tax levy before county voters on Feb. 3 to raise additional funds with which to fully complete the project.

Correction Made In Assault Story

CINCINNATI, Nov. 10.—Hearings for 19 Cincinnati Central high school pupils on assault charges are to be held in juvenile court during the next several weeks.

The youths are accused of injuring at least 19 pupils from Cincinnati Hughes high school in gang attacks during the last few weeks. The Associated Press reported incorrectly Saturday that Central Vocational high school pupils were involved.

No Gondola Ride, No Feeding Of Pigeons In Trip To Venice

By HAL BOYLE

VENICE—In some world famous places it is almost unwritten law that the visitor do certain things or be regarded as a hopeless hillbilly.

At Coney Island you simply have to eat a hot dog. In Rome you must do as the Romans don't—and go and view the Colosseum by moonlight, then ask your guide:

"Well, they got off to a good start, but when are they going to finish the building?"

And here in Venice a tourist, to keep his amateur standing, must take a ride in a gondola and sit at an outdoor cafe and feed the pigeons in the Piazza San Marco.

That puts me in an embarrassing spot. I don't want to be regarded as a cultural savage. And I can see right now what will happen when Frances and I get back home. Sooner or later at a party the question of our trip will come up. And some will ask:

"And in Venice, of course, you rode a gondola and fed the pigeons in St. Mark's Square?"

"No," I will have to confess, "to tell you the truth we went wading."

And I can see right now the look of incredulous disdain as he answers, "Really, old boy, you must be pulling my leg. You don't go wading in Venice. You ride in a gondola, and feed the pigeons. Everyone knows that!"

Well, we didn't. We rode in a motor boat—and we went wading. We had to.

Venice is a fabulous marble town on stilts and 98 islands slowly crumbling into its 150 canals in a lagoon off the Adriatic. They say if you see it for the first time by day you will ever afterward think of it as drab and worn and ugly, but that if on that first visit to Venice you come at night you will remember it always as a city of magic.

We were lucky. We arrived just at dusk, and the lights twinkling on seemed like fireflies in an old world fairyland.

Glancing from the prow of the big tourist boat out across the dark waters of the grand canal at the dark grandeur of ancient palaces, Frances murmured:

"What a wonderful place to be with someone who was romantic rather than rheumatic."

I thought that was a peculiarly wifely remark. We were so weary we ate at the nearest restaurant and then went to bed.

"Did you know that the whole city of Venice is gradually settling into the water?" I asked Frances.

When I awoke the next morning, Frances was hollow-eyed.

"I slept hardly a wink," she said. "A storm came up in the night, and I thought I could feel the hotel sinking, and we would have to swim for the door."

The day was raw, gusty and intermittently rainy. I took along a breakfast roll so I could feed the pigeons, but when we reached the Piazza San Marco water was creeping over the square and no pigeon was in sight.

We entered the tremendous palaces of the Doges, Venice's ancient rulers, and worth traveling half a world to see.

"In the old days," said our guide, "they had banquets here lasting three days and three nights at which they served 500 courses."

"I don't suppose," said Frances, "you could write me down a few recipes?"

When we came out, it was raining and the Adriatic tide had flooded the entire square. The water was almost knee deep. We had only an hour in which to get back to the hotel, pack, and catch a train.

"There's only one thing to do," said Frances, who would rather go wading than eat caviar. So—as the natives stared—we took off our shoes and stockings, and waded through the flood to the hotel.

Four British ladies playing cards looked up, startled, as we came bare-footed and dripping through the lobby. As we passed I heard one say:

"I don't know who they are, but they simply must be Americans. What an odd way to go about."

There was no time for a gondola. I had to hire a motor boat.

"I don't mind too much about the gondola or the pigeons," said Frances. "I think it was more romantic the way it worked out. Who else ever traveled 4,000 miles to wade in Venice?"

A fellow could fall in love with a girl like that.

Mrs. FDR Hints No UN Job Ahead

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 10.—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt hinted here she might not accept reappointment as delegate to the United Nations General Assembly under the Eisenhower administration. "I would have to think very seriously about it if the offer is made," said the 68-year-old former first lady. She said she felt a person serving in the UN "should be very close to the administration," and that she was not exactly close to the Republican leadership.

McCrady Urges Pedestrians Walk Safely

Pedestrians were urged today by Police Chief William McCrady to "walk safely! Your life depends on it!"

In most instances where pedestrian fatalities result in traffic accidents, public indignation over these accidents is aimed at the motorists although many of the pedestrian victims have only themselves to blame.

McCrady pointed out pedestrians frequently cross against the lights or between intersections, dash out from behind parked cars or scoot across the street almost completely hidden behind an umbrella or a mound of packages.

"It's very difficult," he said, "to understand the attitude of the careless pedestrian. Commonsense tells him that in any contest with a motor vehicle he's bound to lose yet he continually overestimates the motorist's ability to see him and to stop in time."

"While many walkers get away with such conduct, the cemeteries and hospitals have more than their share of those who are not so lucky."

Pedestrians were urged to follow these safe walking rules: 1.) Cross streets at marked crosswalks; 2.) Obey walk signals and traffic lights; 3.) Look to the left, the right and for turning vehicles before stepping off the curb; and 4.) To be seen at night carry or wear something white.

Mrs. FDR Hints No UN Job Ahead

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 10.—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt hinted here she might not accept reappointment as delegate to the United Nations General Assembly under the Eisenhower administration.

"I would have to think very seriously about it if the offer is made," said the 68-year-old former first lady. She said she felt a person serving in the UN "should be very close to the administration," and that she was not exactly close to the Republican leadership.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS WASTE

Nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness may be due to slow-down of kidney function. Doctors say good kidney function is very important to good health. When some everyday condition, such as stress and strain, causes this important function to slow down, many folks suffer nagging backache—feel miserable. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages. Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

McCrary Urges Pedestrians Walk Safely

Pedestrians were urged today by Police Chief William McCrary to "walk safely! Your life depends on it!"

In most instances where pedestrian fatalities result in traffic accidents, public indignation over these accidents is aimed at the motorists although many of the pedestrian victims have only themselves to blame.

McCrary pointed out pedestrians frequently cross against the lights or between intersections, dash out from behind parked cars or scoot across the street almost completely hidden behind an umbrella or a mound of packages.

"It's very difficult," he said, "to understand the attitude of the careless pedestrian. Commonsense tells him that in any contest with a motor vehicle he's bound to lose yet he continually overestimates the motorist's ability to see him and to stop in time."

"While many walkers get away with such conduct, the cemeteries and hospitals have more than their share of those who are not so lucky."

Pedestrians were urged to follow these safe walking rules: 1.) Cross streets at marked crosswalks; 2.) Obey walk signals and traffic lights; 3.) Look to the left, the right and for turning vehicles before stepping off the curb; and 4.) To be seen at night carry or wear something white.

SMALL, BUT TASTY

USERS OF TOBACCO know that there is almost no satisfaction in smoking in complete darkness. Sight and even tradition have much to do with taste. Blindfolded samplers of wine are seldom able to distinguish one vintage from another.

Now, at Geneva, Switzerland, in an elaborate international test, experts were unable to tell one unidentified sardine from another.

The sardine test originated in a campaign of the Norwegian government to persuade the West German government Norwegian sardines should not be subject to heavier import duties than sardines originating in the warmer waters of Portugal and France. Norwegian aquavit, one of the most potent of beverages, was provided to help wash down the sardines.

Thirteen unidentified kinds of sardines were offered to samplers, who couldn't tell one from another. The fish from warm southern waters couldn't be distinguished from their kin bred in chill northern marine surroundings. The influence of labeling is clear. It goes for fish, wine, tobacco and a host of other products.

The sardine, whatever its origin, remains one of the succulent items of diet. It needs no cooking; it can be used as an hors d'oeuvre or on toast as a full meal. Such versatility is offered by few foods. If all sardines taste alike, what of it?

HEADING SOUTH

PRESIDENT-ELECT Eisenhower went to Georgia for a vacation the day after the election and, while in his case the trip may have been inspired partly by a desire to escape from the importunities of the faithful, his example will be followed by millions of other Americans in the next several months, mainly for climatic reasons.

From now until May, vacation spots in the southern tier of states, from Florida to California, will be thronged by fortunate northerners who have the wherewithal and the time to loll in the sunny clime of the South. Winter resorts in the North will be filled to overflowing as usual, but the annual Winter hejira to higher temperatures promises to break all records.

An Old Timer is one who can remember when the only alphabetical abbreviations were RFD and BVD.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

I suppose everybody and his brother has by now had an opinion on the Eisenhower landslide and as the days pass, new theories will be thrown into the hopper. In retrospect, it is clear that this was not a politicians' victory but a people's revolt against Korea, Communism and corruption.

The politicians of both parties got into the Korean argument late in the campaign, but the people were not late about it. With 3.5 million Americans conscripted, their parents wanted to know what Korea is all about, and nobody in the government quite told them. There can be no question that as the campaign approached election day, the Korean question loomed largest of all and Eisenhower said that he would go to Korea personally even before he assumed the Presidency.

Even if he can accomplish little or nothing in Korea during the interim period between November and January, his assumption of responsibility gladdened enough worried mothers all over the country to give them some hope that someone would have a new look at the Korean situation.

The Democrats never understood the Communist question. In the Roosevelt Administration they had formed a united front with American Communists, admitting them into the government and forming alliances with them in the big cities.

When this united front poured into the Truman Administration with the Alger Hiss case, the Lattimore case, the charges of Joe McCarthy, the absurd Tydings Committee whitewash, the amazing disclosures of the McCarran Committee, Truman floundered in a sea of unbelievable intrigues and ideological discussions beyond his intellectual capacity.

But the people understood Communism. They know that a traitor is a traitor; that a liar is a liar; that an American who obeys Joe Stalin is unfit for the company of decent Americans. They do not like a fellow like Alger Hiss being called a "red herring." Americans prefer to call a spade a spade and there is no possibility of calling a Communist an American.

Harry Truman and the Democrats dabbled with the Communist question because they regarded it as a political liability. They did not attack it; they tried to cover up. Their loyalty boards did not clean out the filth; they tried to hide it. The vicious attacks on Senator Joe McCarthy are understandable only if we recognize that the Democrats knew that McCarthy would succeed in cracking this cover-up if he stuck to his exposures. They tried to put him on the defensive but only succeeded in stimulating the McCarran Committee into proving the McCarthy charges.

The people were not interested in the fight between the Senators McCarthy and Benton. They were and are interested in doing something positive about the Communists. Communism is a tremendous issue in many states and the people have faith that Eisenhower will get rid of every one of them who remains in government.

DIET AND HEALTH

Glandular Ill Of Old Men

By HERMAN N. DUNDESEN, M.D.

PROSTATE trouble, a common complaint of men getting along in years, is one of the prices many men have to pay for progress. As better medical care and living conditions add years to our lives, more people are reaching old age with its special problems and diseases.

Fortunately, the treatment of the prostate by surgery has kept pace. The proper operation, performed in time, will give relief safely.

Unaware of Condition

Many older men suffer from prostate trouble for years while neither they nor their family are aware that anything is wrong which needs treatment. Their appetite is bad, and they tend to be drowsy, forgetful and irritable. They have difficulty urinating, especially at night.

Aging and the mental disturbances that go with it are often blamed for this state of affairs. Actually the elderly man may be the victim of a prostate trouble which can be helped.

The prostate is a gland in men that surrounds the duct leading from the urinary bladder. During early life its function is to help in reproduction. In older age, this function ceases, and the gland tends to grow in size, sometimes far beyond normal. It often grows in such a way that it blocks the flow of urine from the bladder, acting much like a dam.

Possible Danger

Nearly all men past the age of fifty have some prostate enlargement. Some of these men may complain of frequent urination, but the urine stream is slow, with reduced size and force. The danger of this condition is that the urine may dam up and injure the bladder and kidneys, causing poisons to be retained in the blood.

There are many ways to treat prostate trouble. With little risk, the modern surgeon can remove the gland, giving the elderly man much relief.

If the patient is in good surgical condition, the prostate can be removed through an incision in the abdomen. In certain cases where the risk is too great, this operation may be performed with an instrument that is inserted into the bladder. However, if a person waits until his prostate trouble has complications, he makes a successful operation all the more difficult.

Medicines are of little help in reducing the size of the prostate, and should be used only when surgery is not very promising. Such cases are very rare. Proper preventive measures, however, may be of value in avoiding prostate enlargement.

Today, the older man need not suffer from a prostate disturbance as he once did, for with modern preventive methods carried out by the physician, and surgery when required, the difficulties of this disorder can be obviated.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
A. R. B.: Can diseases be transmitted from one person to another through a transfusion of blood?

Answer: Some diseases can be. Syphilis and malaria are easily transmitted by infected donors. Careful histories of the donors should be taken before the transfusion is undertaken. Also influenza, relapsing fever, measles and smallpox may very rarely be transmitted in this manner.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

ASTRID shivered again, eyeing the darkening, unfriendly shores, remembering the glib phrases that had slipped off the Sky Pilot's tongue concerning female beauty. He had accomplished the first part of his plan to get them in trouble. And if the Varina met the same fate as he had ascribed to the Lady of the West—however fanciful a boat that might have been—then she would probably be taken alive, if possible. Recollection of Narcissus and her tearful of trouble returned unpleasantly.

They had rounded the bend of the river only a few minutes before, and there was no sign of the Astrid, though it had been close behind them for most of the day. Kathleen scanned the horizon anxiously for smoke or other indication that it was close, wondering if some mishap had occurred. If they could work it, the Indians would like nothing better than to keep the two boats apart, unable to assist each other.

"There's no particular damage done, so far as I can discover," Barnshaw reported to Rawls. In this moment, Rawls was the captain, and everyone looked to him for guidance. Barnshaw's stomach felt queasy, and for the first time since leaving St. Louis, he had a twinge of doubt about this venture upon which he had embarked. It had sounded both feasible and profitable then, and there had been the added impetus of patriotism, with a chance to reap a handsome personal profit while doing great deeds for the South. But this was reality, and it was not at all the same. Now he and the others were forced to look to the man who had been betrayed, a man who was bitterly opposed to the entire scheme, or as much as he knew of it—but who was the only person who might save them now.

"Are we on sand or rock?" Rawls asked. "Sand, so far as I can make out. But apparently we can't back off." Rawls was already certain of that. They'd have to grasshopper again—if they could. It was too late to do anything more today. And daylight was a long way off. Rides from the supplies had been issued to all the men, and Rawls handed guns to each of the women.

"You look as if you had steady nerves and a good eye," he said to Kathleen. "You too, Astrid. And I'm sure that Narcissus won't hesitate to shoot an enemy. Comfort, you'd better get down lower, behind such barricades as we have." "You think the Indians will attack?" Astrid quavered, the rifle feeling cold in her hands.

"They'll do more than try," Rawls assured her grimly. "The only question is how soon. A wild chorus of yells gave answer. Rawls had hoped, not too strongly, that the Indians might

Try, Stop Me

Herb Shriner spent hours at the hogseog in his Indiana birthplace trying to talk a little sense into the town drunk. "It ain't that I like the taste of the stuff, Herb," protested the forlorn prisoner. "I hate it! I just drink so's I can forget—and do everything but decide what to cook for supper."

We'd say that famous paleontologist who spent a good part of his career looking for dinosaur eggs is sort of carrying the fad of collecting antiques a bit far.

wait for dawn, or at least for full dark. But they were losing no time. Perhaps a few minutes had been wasted in moving the watchful figures who had kept pace with them during the afternoon, skulking unseen just behind the green line of trees.

Now they had reached a point on shore and were ready. The sound was soul-shaking, as if coming from hundreds of throats, and then warriors burst from cover and started for them—some in canoes, some wading out as far as possible, others going past that point and swimming recklessly, while a shower of arrows and a rain of bullets swept at the stranded Varina. Though she had carried contraband across a thousand miles, designed, as Rawls suspected, for some of these very Indians, even that wasn't working out as planned. Only one thing was certain. Death was swarming at them. For the first time, Rawls was thankful for the guns, glad also that this was a hard-bitten, hand-picked crew who had come on this forbidden journey with the knowledge that they walked with danger. Survival now was measured in minutes, and the rifles were wasting few bullets. Most of these men had undergone a baptism of fire in one army or the other, and they were steady now. They had to be.

A wild figure was in the thick of the fight, directing the attack, exhorting the warriors to ever greater efforts. Schuyler Dekkers, hat discarded, coat flung aside, seemed the wildest savage of them all. He reached the Varina for a second time that day, set hand to climb aboard, and tumbled to the reddening waters beneath with his throat a gash where a bullet had torn. Barnshaw, crouching beside Rawls, nodded grimly.

"That pays back," he said. "Other, equally determined, were reaching the Varina across a channel of death. Wild figures climbed, sprang aboard, to be met with bullets. But it couldn't last long, not at this rate. Too many were coming, determined to overwhelm the stranded packet in the first mad wave, to wash its decks in a wave of red. The somber shadows, the eerie rising hills beyond, were a fitting setting for day's end and journey's finish.

A sharper sound cut through the melee, the angry blast of the Astrid's whistle. A ragged cheer went up from tortured throats as the Astrid churned toward them, a fresh volley from her decks cutting like hail among the attackers. Before that sweep, they wavered, broke, and scrambled frantically for cover.

None too soon. It had been a close thing, with boarders in hand-to-hand grip. Three men were dead on the Varina, five more wounded, two of them seriously. The shores were ominously silent as night rolled across the water, a blackness in which slinking figures could creep.

"It'll be an hour to moonrise," Rawls summed up grimly. "They'll aim to finish us before that." "All we can do is fight them off," Lomax McQuestion rumbled. He had come across at the first lull in the fighting, his face strained and anxious. "We'll back you up. But lights would help them more than us."

"Most lights, yes," Rawls agreed. "But they'll swarm in the dark like ants over a crippled bird. There's just one way to stop them."

"What's that?" McQuestion demanded. "Name it and we'll do it." "I'll have a try at it myself," Rawls retorted shortly. "You keep a sharp watch and hold them off." It wasn't a job to be delegated, though the risk wasn't much worse than remaining on the boat for what was certain to come. That the Indians would take full use of this time of darkness, Rawls was virtually sure. Even of battle was in their blood, the taste of victory had been on their tongues, and they'd savored it as a weasel lusted for hot blood. Rawls moved soundlessly over the side and into the water.

The river was cool, refreshing. His eyes were not too useful, for this dark was like a blanket, the edges smotheringly drawn. The shadow of the cottonwoods, the darker loam of the uneven hills behind, crowded out the sky and mocked the light.

The water was lower than it had been a few weeks before, flood crest for the season a month behind. Somewhere off here was what he sought, what he'd noticed briefly before the dark came down. He moved toward it, mostly by instinct, careful as he walked, though the ripple and gurgle of the water hid any splashing. There were rocks underfoot, moss-grown, slippery, and the current pushed strongly against his legs.

Something moved, a blacker shadow in the murk. These were waters in which men fished, their hooks the sharp weapons of war, their prey the stranded ones on the Varina. The warriors were moving back out to a fresh attack, and there would be just one way to fight them off—if he could manage it.

His feet came out of the water, and his hands told him what he wanted to know. Flood tide on the river had swirled here, across what was a small island during most months of the year. A tree, resisting the current, had stopped a lot of drift. It was piled high around the tree now, sticks nude to the sky and left to dry in the sun. A huge pile between boat and shore, though the bank itself rose with blacker intensity close at hand.

(drat it!) I got the best darn memory in Indiana." Shriner also found time to pay respects to his home town's richest citizen. He made his fortune with an economical dog food that tasted exactly like a letter-carrier's ankle.

The most sensational trial of the year was in progress in Iceland, country of the midnight sun. The prosecutor shook a bony finger in the face of the accused and thundered, "I ask you again, sir: were you on the night of November 8 to March 16?"

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 — Although President Truman has repeatedly declared that national defense expenditures cannot be reduced without jeopardizing security and the anti-Russian alliance, the 1954 fiscal year budget now in preparation carries a sharp cut in the military budget for the first time since the Korean invasion of mid-1950.

Defense appropriations for the 1953 fiscal year, which ends next June 30, totalled approximately $5.4 billion, with an additional $5.4 billion for foreign military and economic assistance.

As of today, the 1954 outlay for defense is estimated at about $4.4 billion, with possibly $5 billion for Mutual Security funds. The difference represents a saving of more than $7 billion. Congress may shave it another $3 billion.

KOREAN ISSUE — These figures are based on the expectation that that fighting will not become more intensive in Korea and Indo-China. Should the Communists launch large-scale invasions in both places, all current estimates will go out the window.

Another factor behind the proposed economy is the French and American plan to train more native soldiers for the defense of their countries. Twenty Indo-Chinese and the same number of Koreans can be made battle-worthy for the cost of transporting a single French or American GI to those distant front lines. The campaign concentration on this issue may yet pay dividends.

VICTORY — Air-minded strategists achieved an outstanding victory in staff arguments over allocation of 1954 funds. Whereas, Army and Navy appropriations will be kept at present levels, almost half of the $4.4 billion will be used to build air strength to the authorized total of 143 wings.

The Pentagon has promised to resurvey its administrative personnel with the objective of placing more arm chair soldiers and sailors in active service.

It is estimated that there are enough superfluous aides, messengers, gardeners, house servants and flunkies of one sort or another to provide another fighting division and a full crew for a battleship.

Anticipating that the new administration and Congress will take a hard look at this wasteful "fat," the brass is inaugurating this needed reform itself.

U. S. FUNCTION — Although still shrouded in secrecy, an entirely new and revolutionary technique for handling the problem of foreign military and economic aid has been advanced by Secretary Acheson and Mutual Security Administrator Harriman. It is designed to meet overseas objections to the dominant position Uncle Sam occupies through the use of money pressures, as recently discussed here.

Instead of bilateral grants or loans of funds to individual countries like Britain, France, Spain, etc., the money would be channelled through the United Nations, its auxiliary agencies or even through a new organization to be known as the International Development Authority, modelled after TVA.

Each member, of course, would be asked to contribute larger sums than they have so far given. Our function would be to make available dollars for purchase of goods, machinery and services needed from the U. S. A.

PROTOCOL — Acheson and Harriman do not expect that this new system can be perfected and placed in operation before they leave office on Jan. 20. But they have blueprinted the organization in advance with the hope that they can sell the idea to their successors. They also aim to enlist private investors in the program, and have already discussed it in financial circles in New York.

Despite the indefiniteness surrounding the project, it would amount to an economic United Nations, dealing with recovery and development rather than with diplomacy. It would attempt to solve by international attack the causes of war—hunger, disease, poverty, etc.

It is designed especially to appeal to Asiatic, African and South American peoples now suspicious that the U. S. has designs on them as cannon fodder in a war with Russia.

Depending upon the response of the new Administration and Congress, as well as the reaction of the private financial community, the outgoing planners of Washington will soon propose this sort of "Union Now" as their final solution for the world's accumulating ills and evils.

SECRETS — Prime Minister Churchill will ask for a greater share in American atomic secrets when he makes his expected visit to Washington next spring. As a bargaining point, he will cite the fact that Britain has progressed in this field further than is generally known especially in the use of these weapons of naval warfare.

He still believes that our atomic headstart has been the principal deterrent to an all-out Russian attack in Western Europe, the Middle East and the Far East. But he insists that, if there were a huge store of atomic bombs and shells in England, within easy flying range of Russian targets, war might be staved off for many many years.

This will be only one of the numerous headaches for President-elect Eisenhower.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 — (AP)—When he leaves the White House President Truman will have time to look back upon his presidency and think of what he might have done if he had it to do over again.

But even if he thinks there were mistakes, he may never say so publicly. He was never a man to give aid and comfort to his critics, if he could help it.

It was this very resistance to criticism (sometimes) that came back to haunt him in the campaign.

When he was first told cracks were beginning to appear in his administration, he used the words asinine and red herring. The Republicans reminded him of those words in the campaign.

That the people thought there were mistakes was clear enough. They showed it in the way they repudiated the Democratic administration with the astonishing vote for Gen. Dwight Eisenhower.

YET IT WAS Truman himself who often expressed faith in the good judgment of the people. Perhaps it was in dealing with the people or rather in not dealing with them more, that he made a major mistake.

One of the most amazing features of the presidential campaign was the bewilderment expressed by many people about issues that had been talked and written about endlessly: Korea, taxes, prices, Communists in government.

Anyone who talked to people about the election heard these same questions over and over:

Why are we in Korea anyway? Why don't we get out? Why don't we bomb the Chinese? What's wrong, when we have to pay such taxes?

It was during Truman's administration that TV came into full bloom. Here, ready at hand, was the most direct instrument any President ever had for sitting down with the people in their own homes and talking to them.

President Roosevelt knew the value of explaining national problems, and his course of action, to the people directly although in his day he was limited to the radio. Nevertheless, his fireside chats became welcome and famous.

TRUMAN, with the added advantage of TV, made some nationwide talks. But those intended to explain a problem or a decision or an action that affected everyone were infrequent.

While he remained absent from the living rooms of the nation, his opponents and critics moved in by way of the TV window and built up their case against him. He had plenty of defenders on TV too.

But Eisenhower will probably make lot more use of TV than Truman did.

British Troops Leaving Bermuda

LONDON, Nov. 10.—(AP)—The British start pulling the last of their garrison troops out of the vacation isle of Bermuda, a crown colony, this month.

The War Office announced "with regret that in the present circumstances they are obliged to withdraw the British garrison, consisting of 154 officers and men, from Bermuda." No reason for the action was given. But Britain's strained economic circumstances and the presence of sizable U. S. air and naval bases on the island appeared to be major factors.

This Democrat Showing Gains

OREGON, Mo., Nov. 10 — (AP)—Fred Cason is a Democrat who runs for office successfully in strongly Republican Holt County, and his popularity seems to be growing.

Two years ago he was elected a county judge by one vote. When counting of absentee ballots was completed it was found he had been reelected Tuesday by a margin of three votes.

Relics Of Bronze Age Discovered

ROSSLARE HARBOR, Ireland — (AP)—What may prove to be the largest concentration of late bronze age (500 B.C.) lake dwellings in Europe outside Switzerland has been uncovered at Lough Gara, County Roscommon, Ireland.

So far, 22 of these crannogs, or artificial islands where early men made their homes for safety, have been found. Also brought to light are bronze rings, tools and pots.

The first discovery was made last Summer, when the Irish government's scheme for draining Lough Gara had been under way for 10 months. A wooden dugout canoe was found in the River Boyle near the lake outlet. A perforated stone sinker for fishing was also found.

Experts say that pottery found at Lough Gara has definite connections in Scotland and in Yorkshire, England, and is believed to represent folk migration from the North European plains to the British Isles.

Best Insurance For Price Drop Is High Yields

Best insurance a farmer can have against any drop in prices is high crop yields per acre that lower his production costs.

Getting more crops per acre depends on building up fertility by adding plant nutrients the soil lacks.

When you restore fertility you increase the soil's organic matter supply. This, in turn, improves soil ventilation, drainage and tilth. It helps protect your land against erosion.

Corn fertilizing tests on 85 Missouri fields to show how boosting yields per acre cuts down production costs and increased profits.

When the soil got a full fertilizer treatment based on soil tests, yields averaged 91 bushels per acre. At the yield level, production costs averaged 75 cents per bushel, including labor, machinery, fertilizer, taxes, interest, etc. Figuring wheat at $1.50 per bushel, this left a net profit of $68.25 per acre.

WHEN SOIL nutrient needs were partially met, average corn yields were 54 bushels per acre. Production costs averaged 96 cents per bushel, permitting a net profit of $29.16 per acre.

The 1951 state average corn yield was 34 bushels per acre. At such a level, production costs averaged $1.44 per bushel. This would leave a net profit of only $2.04 per acre.

World Today

By James Marlow
Associated Press
News Analyst

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 — (P)—When he leaves the White House President Truman will have time to look back upon his presidency and think of what he might have done if he had it to do over again.

But even if he thinks there were mistakes, he may never say so publicly. He was never a man to give aid and comfort to his critics, if he could help it.

It was this very resistance to criticism (sometimes) that came back to haunt him in the campaign.

When he was first told cracks were beginning to appear in his administration, he used the words asinine and red herring. The Republicans reminded him of those words in the campaign.

That the people thought there were mistakes was clear enough. They showed it in the way they repudiated the Democratic administration with the astonishing vote for Gen. Dwight Eisenhower.

YET IT WAS Truman himself who often expressed faith in the good judgment of the people. Perhaps it was in dealing with the people or rather in not dealing with them more, that he made a major mistake.

One of the most amazing features of the presidential campaign was the bewilderment expressed by many people about issues that had been talked and written about endlessly: Korea, taxes, prices, Communists in government.

Anyone who talked to people about the election heard these same questions over and over:

Why are we in Korea anyway? Why don't we get out? Why don't we bomb the Chinese? What's wrong, when we have to pay such taxes?

It was during Truman's administration that TV came into full bloom. Here, ready at hand, was the most direct instrument any President ever had for sitting down with the people in their own homes and talking to them.

President Roosevelt knew the value of explaining national problems, and his course of action, to the people directly although in his day he was limited to the radio. Nevertheless, his fireside chats became welcome and famous.

TRUMAN, with the added advantage of TV, made some nationwide talks. But those intended to explain a problem or a decision or an action that affected everyone were infrequent.

While he remained absent from the living rooms of the nation, his opponents and critics moved in by way of the TV window and built up their case against him. He had plenty of defenders on TV too.

But Eisenhower will probably make lot more use of TV than Truman did.

British Troops Leaving Bermuda

LONDON, Nov. 10.—(P)—The British start pulling the last of their garrison troops out of the vacation isle of Bermuda, a crown colony, this month.

The War Office announced "with regret that in the present circumstances they are obliged to withdraw the British garrison, consisting of 154 officers and men, from Bermuda." No reason for the action was given. But Britain's strained economic circumstances and the presence of sizable U. S. air and naval bases on the island appeared to be major factors.

This Democrat Showing Gains

OREGON, Mo., Nov. 10 — (P)—Fred Cason is a Democrat who runs for office successfully in strongly Republican Holt County, and his popularity seems to be growing.

Two years ago he was elected a county judge by one vote. When counting of absentee ballots was completed it was found he had been reelected Tuesday by a margin of three votes.

Child Problems and Solutions

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, PhD

Today we shall observe the child, over four or five, who seems to be too generous.

There's the toddler who lets the other children have almost anything of his to carry off whenever they please.

He may roam about on the lawn or pavement with no playthings while several other children are using his cart, wagon or tricycle. When some other child, even younger than he, demands that this child give up something of his, he meekly submits.

Unless this child is subnormal mentally, he usually has so many more playthings than his playmates have that his possessions are so numerous as to have but little value to him.

Then he may discover that by letting other children have what they want of his, he can buy their protection in case they often have intimidated him; or can buy their readiness to let him have his way or some special favor, if he hasn't won a cherished social status by normal means.

You know the child who tries to bribe playmates "to come play with me," by offering them gum or other dainties; or such bribes if they will stay longer when they had threatened to go home earlier than he wished.

YOU ALSO know the child who will carry out generous quantities of cakes and fruit to distribute among numerous playmates who eagerly assemble for his handouts, and then turn on him to bully him or soon go home, leaving him a lonely child. The mother of this child, wishing not to curb his seeming generosity, will let him go on in these ways.

In doing so she fails to discern the selfish motives which prompt him, and the harm his ways are doing to the other children.

If you have a child who so freely distributes goodies from your home among his playmates, make clear to him he can do so no longer; that if he wishes to share by giving up some of a limited quantity of what he highly cherishes himself, he might do so.

If, for example, he occasionally has one apple and cuts it into enough pieces to give one piece to each playmate, he might be learning generosity.

But as long as he has all he cares to have and enough in addition for the other children, he is only being practiced in selfishness, and they in being parasites.

Think of all the youths and grown-up men and women who in all sorts of ways seemingly unselfishly give away the hard-earned money of their parents under the guise of generosity—but actually just to win gestures of temporary friendship and popularity for themselves.

But the biggest issue is what it does to the child himself when he practices at buying status instead of earning it.

This problem hardly arises in the child who has learned to wait, who has not had nearly all of what he wanted right when he wanted it, but who has learned thrift and self-denial.

Q. Our son, two and a half, began talking early but has begun to stutter. How can I help him overcome this?

A. Try to ignore his stuttering as not even to have any stirrings in your insides over it. Work on yourself and him that all of you might feel more serene and he more secure. Rock and cuddle him often. Sing to him. Read a great deal to him. Speak in quiet tones and keep the radio off while he is awake in a family atmosphere of affection and companionship.

Less Profit Due Next Year In Beef Feeding

Ohio farmers can expect less profit from feeding beef cattle in 1953.

While feed supplies are expected to be adequate, average prices for slaughter cattle will be lower. Potential supplies of beef are at the highest level on record and are likely to go even higher.

This situation probably will cause a lower beef-corn ratio. In other words, the value of 100 pounds of live beef will buy fewer bushels of corn.

In the 1949-50 feeding season, the average ratio was 18. The next season was even more favorable.

During the 1951-52 period, however, beef producers were able to exchange 100 pounds of live beef for only 16.6 bushels of corn. The ratio is expected to drop further next season, and the lower figure will undoubtedly put a greater pinch on cattle feeders.

Although the picture is not as bright as in recent years, profits can still be made from feeding cattle if farmers stress efficiency and use good judgment in buying and selling.

Elinor Williams' Teen Tips

Maybe you don't realize it, but good manners are part of having fun. Why? Because it's easier to have a good time when you know exactly what you're expected to do and how to do it correctly.

Manners—the right ones at the right time—will also help to smooth your path wherever you go in school, college, business or a profession. Good manners, like charity, begin at home, whether you're a girl or a boy.

So if you want to be poised and self-confident instead of shy and awkward in public, practice good manners at home, because you can't suddenly acquire a completely new and different set of manners when you step out the front door. It's only when good manners have become a daily habit that they're a permanent part of your personality—not just for parties, but for every minute of every day.

All rules for good manners are based on simple common sense, tact and consideration for the feelings of others. When in doubt, do the simplest, kindest thing—the thing that won't hurt anybody's feelings and will help everybody feel at ease—and you won't blunder too noticeably.

Because so many of you have asked for a leaflet on manners, there's a new one available for you now from this column—free.

It contains the basic know-how that you need in school, during dates, on a job and wherever you are—how to make introductions, what to say when you're introduced to a young person or an older one—when to rise and when to remain seated—good manners at the table, etc.

IT'S SAFER! On rough roads, soft shoulders, loose gravel, or in the event of a blow-out, Chrysler's full-time power steering gives you complete control of your car at all times. Hydraulic power helps you turn... lets you hold a true, steady course with a constant, predictable "feel" to the steering wheel. And with far less fatigue, no matter how long the trip!

IT'S EASIER! 85% of the steering effort is taken off your hands, substantially more than with any other type of power steering. Even when the car is standing still, you can actually turn the wheel with one finger. A real boon in traffic... on hard-to-negotiate driveways... or when parking!

Small Game Hunters Slated To Take To Fields Saturday

COLUMBUS, Nov. 10.—(P)—Ohio small game hunters take to the fields Saturday at 9 a. m.—opening date for this state's pheasant and rabbit seasons.

Division of wildlife officials emphasized the opening date of Nov. 15 because they said there had been previous erroneous, published reports that the date was Nov. 10.

It appeared the confusion was caused by the Nov. 10 opening date for the Ohio raccoon season. Raccoon hunting can begin at 6 p. m. Monday. The coon bag limit is four per day with possession limited to four in the field.

Grouse and Hungarian partridge are included in the small game season opening Saturday. Daily bag limit of pheasant is 2, possession limit 4, after the first day. Four rabbits per day will be allowed with a possession limit of four. Daily limit of grouse will be 2, with possession limit of 4 after the first day.

TWO HUNGARIAN partridge will be permitted to be taken daily, with possession limit of four after the first day.

Wildlife officials were not overly optimistic about how some of the hunters will fare. Last minute

Both Branches Of Pro League Knotted Tight

If Gridders Follow 1950 Trend, Playoff Will Be Required

CLEVELAND, Nov. 10.—(P)—In 1950, when both conference races in the National Football League wound up in dead heats—causing an unprecedented double playoff—pro grid fans, somewhat bewildered by it all, were heard to say:

"Well, that's something which won't happen again for a long time."

That may be so, but here it is, just two years later, and we have a similar down-to-the-wire-and-beyond-it situation in prospect.

The San Francisco 49ers, the Detroit Lions are roaring, and the New York Giants and Cleveland Browns keep rocking along, playing none-too-brilliant, but winning football.

As a result, both conference races now are locked in two-way ties for first place with five weeks of the season left to go. And to make it even closer each team has a 5-2 record.

Saturday's Wave Of Upsets Has Seers Gulping Aspirin

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(P)—The seers were making hasty revisions in their football prognostications after Saturday's tidal wave of upsets, and to say that they still are reeling from the reversals would be putting it mildly.

Conferee championships, which should be about settled, still can go any way, and, more important, the sponsors of the big New Year's Day bowl games, along with the "experts," are gulping aspirin and hoping things follow the form that marked the first half of the season.

The demise of Oklahoma and Villanova, two of the rapidly diminishing list of unbeaten, were the big upsets. But Kansas, Penn State and Duke, all among the mighty of the land, fell. And Purdue and Mississippi didn't add any prestige to their records. The Boilermakers could do no more than tie Minnesota, 14-14, and Ole Miss squeaked through to a 6-0 decision over Houston.

Only the big three, Michigan State, Maryland and Georgia Tech, have been holding up.

MARYLAND was idle Saturday, but the Spartans rolled over Indiana, 41-14, and the Engineers clubbed Army, 45-6.

This week, though, they all face tough assignments, possibly their most rugged of the campaign.

Biggie Munn's Staters must entertain Notre Dame, the team that polished off feared Oklahoma, 27-21, last week.

Maryland meets Mississippi in a battle of unbeaten. Mississippi has been tied twice and came mighty close in its triumph over Houston.

Georgia Tech, already tapped for the Sugar Bowl, will go for its ninth straight triumph when it tangles with Alabama.

On the Pacific Coast, where the Rose Bowl nomination stands as the lure of the winner, the big game is two weeks hence when Southern California and UCLA

County Cage Teams Face 10 Contests

A menu of 10 basketball games is to be dished up this week for Pickaway County basketball followers.

On tap this week are four games carded for Tuesday night and six contests Friday night.

Three of the four non-league Tuesday night tilts will be in the county, the fourth due at Pleasantville.

Another test of the power of county league teams will be available in the five league tests Friday night.

In league openers last Friday night, Darby, Ashville, Monroe, Jackson, New Holland, Williamsport and Walnut all showed power potential.

PICKAWAY Pirates were without a game in the opener. Their first league showing will be Friday at Williamsport.

Complete schedule of games for this week involving county teams is as follows:

Tuesday
Madison Mills at Atlanta.
Carroll at Monroe.
Pickaway at Pleasantville.
Amanda at Scioto.

Friday
Darby at Ashville.
New Holland at Walnut.
Pickaway at Williamsport.
Scioto at Saltcreek.
Monroe at Jackson.
Clarksburg at Atlanta.

23 Grid Teams Still Undeclared

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(P)—The list of unbeaten and untied college football teams now stands at 23 including Georgia Tech, Michigan State, UCLA, Southern California and Maryland.

Topping the nation's all-winning eleven is little Peru Teachers of Nebraska with nine straight.

Six colleges slipped from the elite group over the weekend. They were Alfred (N.Y.), Lawrence (Wis.), Ricks (Idaho), Findlay (O.), Northern State (SD) and Mcclair (NJ).

Tiger Gridders Looking Forward To Three Big Events In 2 Weeks

Circleville high school football players Monday began looking forward to the dinner circuit after having ended their 1952 season last Friday with a 55-7 loss to Washington C. H.

Three big events face the Tiger gridders in the next two weeks. First is Monday night at the annual Kiwanis Club football banquet. Special feature will be an address by Jack Landrum, coach of Capital University and a former Circleville high school coach.

Next will be the big Booster Club Banquet at 6:30 p. m. Thursday in the service center of First EUB church.

FEATURES of the Booster fete will be an address by George "Tubby" Vlerbome; presentation of the team; and awarding of the "most valuable player" trophy. Vlerbome, son of Mrs. Channing Vlerbome of East Main street, is now coach of Zanesville high school.

While attending Circleville high school he excelled in football and basketball, later went on to win honors as an "All-Ohio" player in Muskingum college. He was coach of the South team this year in the annual "North-South" game.

Vlerbome was chosen speaker to replace Miller Pontious of New York City, who was unable to attend. John Heiskell is to be master of ceremonies for the program, expected to attract about 300 local fans.

Tickets for the Booster fete are available at Kinsey's, Hamilton's, Court-Main restaurant, Laughlin's print shop and the office of Dr. David Goldschmidt.

Final event will be the annual South Central Ohio League banquet Nov. 19 in Washington C. H.

The football teams of the league will not be present during the SCOL session, but will eagerly await selection of "All-League" players by the coaches of the five member schools.

DURING THIS season, Circleville gridders chalked up three victories in nine games.

For the season, CHS collected a total of 127 points while its opposition earned 196. On the ground, the Tigers gained 2,447 yards from scrimmage and its opponents gained 2,485.

Circleville led its foes in one department. The Tigers fumbled a total of 31 times this year, while the opposition fumbled only 22 times.

Ending their high school grid careers last Friday night were Walter Heine, Clyde Cook, Bob Turner, Fred Davis, John Wilkes, Ted Davis, Robin Jones and Bill Brannon.

Complete record of the Tiger football team this season follows:

Circleville, 32; Holy Rosary, 6.

Linden McKinley, 14; Circleville, 13.

Wilkinson, 6; Circleville, 2.

Hillsboro, 25; Circleville, 13.

Grandview, 33; Circleville, 24.

St. Charles, 32; Circleville, 0.

Circleville, 18; Greenfield, 13.

Circleville, 18; Westerville, 12.

Washington, 55; Circleville, 7.

Ohio College Gridders Eye Last Big Weekend Of Season

COLUMBUS, Nov. 10.—Ohio's college gridders have their last big spurge on tap this weekend, a 19-game slate which will leave only eight of the 36 squads with future engagements.

Six teams wound up their schedules Saturday as Ohio Northern just about clinched the Mid-Ohio League laurels by handing Findlay's Oilers their first defeat, and Heidelberg's Student Princes practically wrapped up the Ohio Conference title.

Ohio Wesleyan fixed it for the Princes by knocking Muskingum out of a top spot, 36-14. The Mid-American championship rests on the Turkey Day game between Cincinnati and Miami, both unbeaten in the loop. Miami paces the statewide race with seven straight, the Redskins boasting Ohio's only unbeaten record.

Ohio State, which stubbed its toe against underdog Pittsburgh, 14-21, Saturday, has rugged Illinois coming up this week on the foreign grid. The Illini, coming strong after a poor start, defeated Iowa 33-13 Saturday after whipping Michigan the week before.

HEIDELBERG needs only to win over Akron this week to clinch the Ohio Conference title, while Ohio Northern faces non-victorious Ashland in its bid for a clean slate in the Mid-Ohio.

The Saturday schedule:

Western Conference: Ohio State at Illinois.

Mid-American Conference: Ohio U. at Bowling Green.

Ohio Conference: Heidelberg at Akron (night), Muskingum at Otterbein, Wooster at Oberlin, Ohio Wesleyan at Wittenberg.

Mid-Ohio League: Ashland at Ohio Northern, Cedarville at Defiance (night).

Carl Smith Holds To Scoring Lead

WASHINGTON C. H., Nov. 10.—Carl Smith, backfield ace of Washington C. H. high school, continues to lead Ohio high school football scorers with a total of 294 points.

He scored 30 points in his school's 55-7 win over Circleville Friday night. In second spot among high scorers is Hubert Bobo of Chaucery-Dover high school with 288 points. Bobo scored 36 points in his school's 42-0 win over McArthur last week. Bobo has one more game while Smith has completed his season.

Cop Says Ike 'Too Friendly'

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—The Chicago policeman who served as Dwight D. Eisenhower's personal bodyguard for the last three months, says the President-elect sometimes was "too friendly" for his own safety.

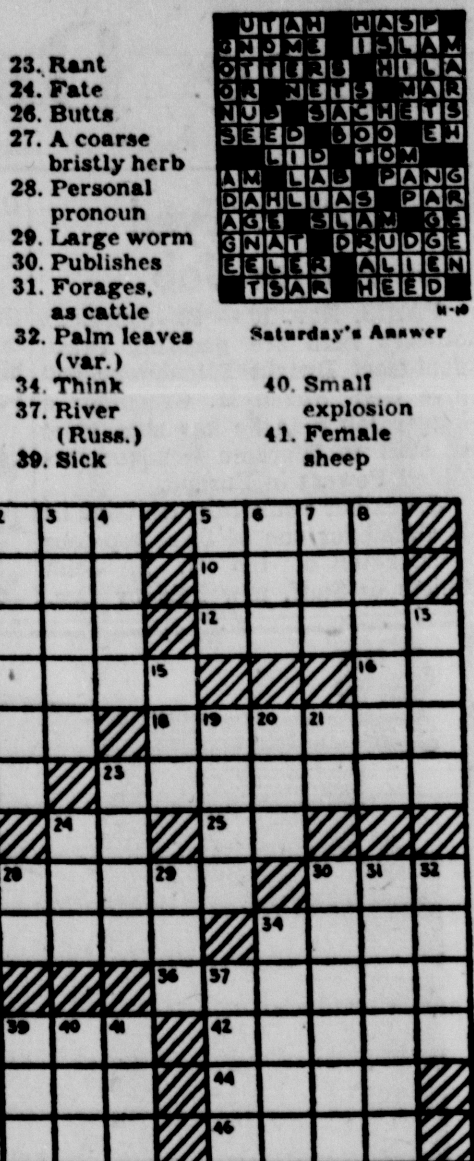

Police Detective Louis E. Swee, who traveled 51,000 miles on the campaign with the Republican presidential nominee, says: "Everybody loved him. It was a hard job keeping friendly people from trampling him. He wanted to shake hands with everybody."

Sokolsky's These Days

Many smart politicians did not believe that corruption played a great role in this campaign. They are wrong. The disclosures before the Fulbright, Kefauver, Chelf and other committees of corruption on a scale unprecedented in our history shocked the nation.

They were made by Democratic committees and Truman might have taken advantage of them to say that he exposed the corrupt in his own administration.

Hedared not do it. He could not guess which of his cronies had sold him out. But the people knew. They objected to all of them. They wanted all the rascals out. Therefore the slogan, "It's Time for a Change," had real meaning for the voters.

They realized that no investigation, no matter how competent, could catch every thief; so they wanted all the thieves driven out of office, the hidden as well as the disclosed ones.

The Democratic argument that General Eisenhower is inexperienced in civilian matters made no impression upon the people. They did not care about that. They assumed that he could learn or be advised.

What they wanted was to drive out the corruptionists and they did not believe that Stevenson could do it.

The Democrats missed the boat when they tried to say that Eisenhower was the captive of Robert A. Taft and other Republicans. The people brushed that off. What worried the citizens was that Adlai Stevenson would be the captive of the Truman machine which was corrupt and contented. They voted against that.

When the American people face moral issues, they never go wrong.

The pilot said he was able to nurse the plane back to the airport. The broken propeller had "all the earmarks of bullets," Cassidy said.

Warren, who is pastor of the Abyssinian Baptist Church here, said in a sermon Sunday that the church is "the only hope for civilization. The trouble with America is that our values are not religious but nationalistic. Our slogan is not God's way but the American way."

Church 'Only Hope' For Civilization

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Rep. Adam Clayton Powell Jr. (D-N.Y.) says "America has not made a single original contribution to civilization except the Negro spiritual and the atomic bomb."

Powell, who is pastor of the Abyssinian Baptist Church here, said in a sermon Sunday that the church is "the only hope for civilization. The trouble with America is that our values are not religious but nationalistic. Our slogan is not God's way but the American way."

Warren, who is pastor of the Abyssinian Baptist Church here, said in a sermon Sunday that the church is "the only hope for civilization. The trouble with America is that our values are not religious but nationalistic. Our slogan is not God's way but the American way."

Rightists Win Sharply In German Poll

FRANKFURT, Nov. 10.—Rightist and Fascist forces scored sharp gains and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's middle-road Christian Democrat Party lost ground Sunday in local elections in three West German states.

In lower Saxony, British zone birthplace of the outlawed Nazi Socialist Reich Party (SRP), two former Nazi officials were named to public office.

Adenauer's chief opposition, the Social Democrats, held their own and gained slightly in some areas.

The voting was for 96,000 local and district offices — mayors and city and district councilmen — in the British-occupied states of North Rhine Westphalia, Rhineland Palatinate and Lower Saxony.

Though issues were largely local, observers watched the results for indications of what lies in store for Adenauer's government in next summer's national elections.

The rightist trend benefited Adenauer's three-party government coalition, even if it didn't help the chancellor's party. The rightwing Free Democrat party (FDP), second strongest in the cabinet alliance, picked up strength. The Communists lost considerable ground everywhere.

CAA Probes Blast Of Plane's Prop

WAUSEON, Nov. 10.—The Civil Aeronautics Administration is investigating a blast which shattered the propeller of the plane of Ed Cassidy of Wauseon. Cassidy was flying near Reading, Mich., at 1,200 feet when the ship was jolted Sunday.

The pilot said he was able to nurse the plane back to the airport. The broken propeller had "all the earmarks of bullets," Cassidy said.

Wood Pile Tiff Leads To Death

WARREN, Nov. 10.—An argument over who would put wood on the fire led to the fatal shooting of Mike Jesko, 68, on a farm in near-by West Farmington.

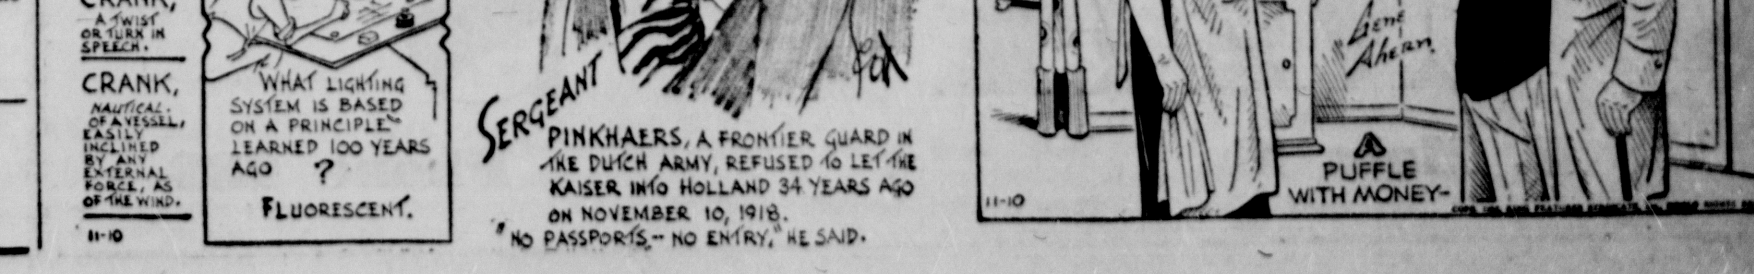

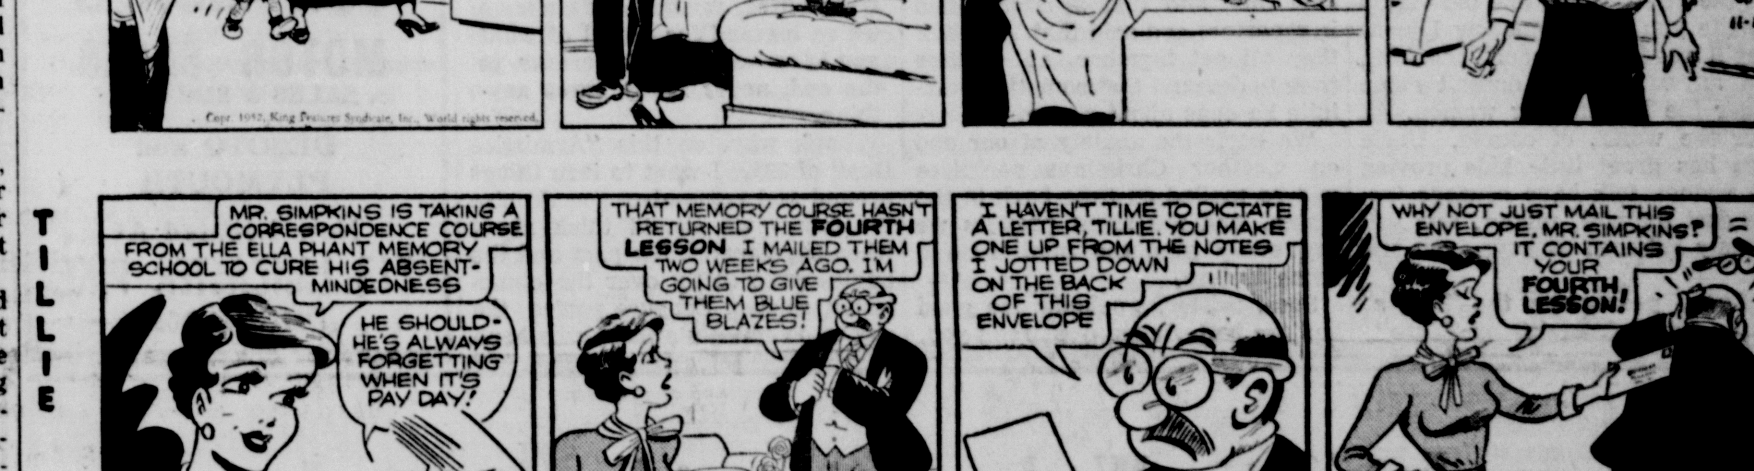

Sheriff's deputies quoted Mrs. Julia Bienkowski, 72, as saying she shot Jesko in self defense Sunday when he started to strike her.

Tiger Gridders Looking Forward To Three Big Events In 2 Weeks

Circleville high school football players Monday began looking forward to the dinner circuit after having ended their 1952 season last Friday with a 55-7 loss to Washington C. H.

Three big events face the Tiger gridders in the next two weeks.

First is Monday night at the annual Kiwanis Club football banquet. Special feature will be an address by Jack Landrum, coach of Capital University and a former Circleville high school coach.

Next will be the big Booster Club Banquet at 6:30 p. m. Thursday in the service center of First EUB church.

FEATURES of the Booster fete will be an address by George "Tubby" Vlerbome; presentation of the team; and awarding of the "most valuable player" trophy.

Vlerbome, son of Mrs. Channing Vlerbome of East Main street, is now coach of Zanesville high school.

While attending Circleville high school he excelled in football and basketball, later went on to win honors as an "All-Ohio" player in Muskingum college. He was coach of the South team this year in the annual "North-South" game.

Vlerbome was chosen speaker to replace Miller Pontious of New York City, who was unable to attend. John Heiskell is to be master of ceremonies for the program, expected to attract about 300 local fans.

Tickets for the Booster fete are available at Kinsey's, Hamilton's, Court-Main restaurant, Laughlin's print shop and the office of Dr. David Goldschmidt.

Final event will be the annual South Central Ohio League banquet Nov. 19 in Washington C. H.

The football teams of the league will not be present during the SCOL session, but will eagerly await selection of "All-League" players by the coaches of the five member schools.

DURING THIS season, Circleville gridders chalked up three victories in nine games.

For the season, CHS collected a total of 127 points while its opposition earned 196. On the ground, the Tigers gained 2,447 yards from scrimmage and its opponents gained 2,485.

Circleville led its foes in one department. The Tigers fumbled a total of 31 times this year, while the opposition fumbled only 22 times.

Ending their high school grid careers last Friday night were Walter Heine, Clyde Cook, Bob Turner, Fred Davis, John Wilkes, Ted Davis, Robin Jones and Bill Brannon.

Complete record of the Tiger football team this season follows: Circleville, 32; Holy Rosary, 6; Linden McKinley, 14; Circleville, 13; Wilmington, 6; Circleville, 2; Hillsboro, 25; Circleville, 13; Grandview, 33; Circleville, 24; St. Charles, 32; Circleville, 0; Circleville, 18; Greenfield, 13; Circleville, 18; Westerville, 12; Washington, 55; Circleville, 7.

Ohio Wesleyan fixed it for the Princes by knocking Muskingum out of a top-spot tie, 36-14.

The Mid-American championship rests on the Turkey Day game between Cincinnati and Miami, both unbeaten in the loop. Miami paces the statewide race with seven straight, the Redskins boasting Ohio's only unbeaten record.

Ohio State, which stubbed its toe against underdog Pittsburgh, 14-21, Saturday, has rugged Illinois coming up this week on the foreign grid. The Illini, coming strong after a poor start, defeated Iowa 33-13 Saturday after whipping Michigan the week before.

HEIDELBERG needs only to win over Akron this week to clinch the Ohio Conference title, while Ohio Northern faces non-victorious Ashland in its bid for a clean slate in the Mid-Ohio.

The Saturday schedule: Western Conference: Ohio State at Illinois.

Mid-American Conference: Ohio U. at Bowling Green.

Ohio Conference: Heidelberg at Akron (night), Muskingum at Otterbein, Wooster at Oberlin, Ohio Wesleyan at Wittenberg.

Mid-Ohio League: Ashland at Ohio Northern, Cedarville at Defiance (night).

Non-conference: Bradley at John Carroll (night), Toledo at Youngstown (night), Washington at Marietta (night), Anderson at Capital, Denison at Case Tech, Washington & Lee at Cincinnati, Kent State at New Hampshire, Dayton at Miami, Butler at Western Reserve, Baldwin-Wallace at Camp Lejeune Marines, Xavier at Boston College.

Police Detective Louis E. Swee, who traveled 51,000 miles on the campaign with the Republican presidential nominee, says: "Everybody loved him. It was a hard job keeping friendly people from trampling him. He wanted to shake hands with everybody."

Cop Says Ike 'Too Friendly'

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—The Chicago policeman who served as Dwight D. Eisenhower's personal bodyguard for the last three months, says the President-elect sometimes was "too friendly" for his own safety.

Police Detective Louis E. Swee, who traveled 51,000 miles on the campaign with the Republican presidential nominee, says: "Everybody loved him. It was a hard job keeping friendly people from trampling him. He wanted to shake hands with everybody."

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Rep. Adam Clayton Powell Jr. (D-NY) says "America has not made a single original contribution to civilization except the Negro spiritual and the atomic bomb."

Powell, who is pastor of the Abyssinian Baptist Church here, said in a sermon Sunday that the church is "the only hope for civilization. The trouble with America is that our values are not religious but nationalistic. Our slogan is not God's way but the American way."

WARREN, Nov. 10.—An argument over who would put wood on the fire led to the fatal shooting of Mike Jesko, 68, on a farm in nearby West Farmington.

Sheriff's deputies quoted Mrs. Julia Bienkowski, 72, as saying she shot Jesko in self defense Sunday when he started to strike her.

THE pilot said he was able to nurse the plane back to the airport. The broken propeller had "all the earmarks of bullets," Cassidy said.

Sokolosky's These Days

Many smart politicians did not believe that corruption played a great role in this campaign. They are wrong. The disclosures before the Fulbright, Kefauver, Chelf and other committees of corruption on a scale unprecedented in our history shocked the nation.

They were made by Democratic committees and Truman might have taken advantage of them to say that he exposed the corrupt in his own administration.

Hedared not do it. He could not guess which of his cronies had sold him out.

But the people knew. They objected to all of them. They wanted all the rascals out. Therefore the slogan, "It's Time for a Change," had real meaning for the voters.

They realized that no investigation, no matter how competent, could catch every thief; so they wanted all the thieves driven out of office, the hidden as well as the disclosed ones.

The Democratic argument that General Eisenhower is inexperienced in civilian matters made no impression upon the people. They did not care about that. They assumed that he could learn or be advised.

What they wanted was to drive out the corruptionists and they did not believe that Stevenson could do it.

The Democrats missed the boat when they tried to say that Eisenhower was the captive of Robert A. Taft and other Republicans. The people brushed that off. What worried the citizens was that Adlai Stevenson would be the captive of the Truman machine which was corrupt and contented. They voted against that.

When the American people face moral issues, they never go wrong.

Rightists Win Sharply In German Poll

FRANKFURT, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Rightist and Fascist forces scored sharp gains and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's middle-road Christian Democrat Party lost ground Sunday in local elections in three West German states.

In Lower Saxony, British zone birthplace of the outlawed Nazi-like Socialist Reich Party (SRP), two former Nazi officials were named to public office.

Adenauer's chief opposition, the Social Democrats, held their own and gained slightly in some areas.

The voting was for 96,000 local and district offices — mayors and city and district councilmen — in the British-occupied states of North Rhine Westphalia, Rhineland Palatinate and Lower Saxony.

Though issues were largely local, observers watched the results for indications of what lies in store for Adenauer's government in next summer's national elections.

The rightist trend benefited Adenauer's three-party government coalition, even if it didn't help the chancellor's party. The rightwing Free Democrat party (FDP), second strongest in the cabinet alliance, picked up strength. The Communists lost considerable ground everywhere.

Hi Mister! Just Another Armistice Day Letter—Never Sent

Maybe Theme Needs Switch, Hero Suggests

Soldiers Do Share, But Civilians Fail To Hold Peace

By ED McCANN
Herald Staff Writer

Hi Mister!

I know that's probably not the correct way for a guy to greet a stranger—no introduction nor anything like that. But to tell you the truth it seems a long time since they taught us those things back home. Korea can make you forget an awful lot; the nice, and clean and the decent little things.

But then too, I guess it doesn't really matter anyway. You don't have a name all your own, because you're just the average civilian back home in the States. And as for me, the name wouldn't matter either. Addresses? Who cares? Call it Pickaway County, Philadelphia, Omaha or San Diego—or along any one of those millions of rural routes where home begins at a swinging gate or just beyond a big oak where the mail box hangs.

They'll probably tag me just the Unknown Soldier of the Korean War. And this letter will just be one of those I never had a chance to send. You can be sure I ain't about to send it, mister. A guy can tell, you know.

DID I USE the word "war," mister? Forgive me. I understand on the official books it can't rate that bad yet. They tell us over here it's still just a "police action" or something of the sort. All this death and misery up and down this stinking country, from Pusan to the Yalu, is still unofficial, I know.

Pardon us, mister, if now and then we forget it.

Forgive it too, if I seem to forget the girls—young and old—when I write you this. Somehow I know they'll read over your shoulder, and anyway it just doesn't come under the heading for women. All over the world, of course, Uncle Sam has great little kids proving the women folk have courage too. But just for now, mister, this will be only between us guys—you and me.

Every year since the boys came home from "Over There"

In 1918 it's been a custom around Nov. 11 for you all who live to remember those who gave all a fellow can. Somebody who meant well called it "Armistice Day."

We've had a lot of living since the years when they talked about the Argonne, St. Mihiel and all the others the doughboys know. There was a whole new set of names yet to come for the GI's—Casablanca, Anzio, the Rapido, Omaha beach, to name but a few.

And now, 34 years after that "Armistice Day" we mentioned, we're trying to learn how to spell and pronounce Taegu, Inchon, Seoul and alot of others.

IN OTHER words, mister, it seems we keep talking about "Armistice Day" but only change the names of the places and the boys on the latest honor rolls around the town. Maybe we need a switch this year, I figure, and that's why I decided on this note—if I can get it finished.

On this "Armistice Day" of 1952, mister, let's turn it around. I'll be remembering you—and you in turn think of the troops who have yet to march in the years ahead.

Somehow it seems a better idea in view of the way things have been going, you know. At least it might bring better results. And that we need, mister.

Don't get me wrong through, either. It isn't being bitter—not really when you sit down and think.

Sure a lot of us over here gripe, howl and swear at the things we hear and read about back in the States.

We know a lot of folks still smile at that gag on how soldiers always complain. So few seem to remember that in wartime soldiers really have something to complain about.

We know how the blood donations lag. We think of it especially in the front line aid stations while we're lining up the kids for their transfusions, the ones who lay white and still—and those who chew the edges of their blankets and cry only with their eyes.

WE KNOW HOW it feels to read how this congressman got up and said this, and that senator called in reporters and said that. And how they all get together at election time to demand that something definite be done about Korea.

We know the anxiety at our end on whether Christmas packages will be mailed on time back in the states. And the silent prayers we say every time the mail from home arrives.

Sure, mister, we know the good and the bad. Better even than you, we can see over the thousands of miles and spot the fakers and the faithful all around you; the real people of America who will never forget us, and those who—in their small, tight-fisted and bullheaded lives—will never forget themselves.

It's a real education of a kind no civilian can ever have, mister. And the advanced courses are in session now in Korea.

No matter how hard you try, back there where Heaven begins with Frisco—no matter how true your heart aims—you can't know the lessons the troops learn the hard way.

No matter how old he is, you know, a man learns a lot of things he never thought of before when he has to fight off overwhelming sleep all through a crippling cold night to make sure he's still alive by dawn. You can get a lifetime education within a few hours while hiding in slime and human decay, and listening to something or somebody crawl closer and closer a few yards away.

THERE'S a chance to think as nobody in the States can think when you're alone with a lighted candle at some forgotten hole in the Korean mountains, while the early winter winds struggle with the tarp at the doorway and the shadows on the muddy walls fashion lonesome dreams.

No professors or university libraries can help a man much when the darkness is suddenly split wide open by the scream, flash and flare of a midnight attack. No rules we brought with us over here seemed to apply when you have to sit for long hours through the day and pretend to carry on a conversation with a buddy you don't dare look at in the same shell hole.

I'll be easy on the details, mister, because I know some of them you can learn in a most any morgue or undertaking parlor—some of them, that is. And I think you get the point anyway.

But you see what I mean when I say we ain't really bitter when we finally get a chance to sit down and think. We couldn't be truly bitter, mister, because we've learned far ahead of what you know—and how bitterness, in the end, never really cures anything.

That's why, on this "Armistice Day" of 1952, I want to turn things around and remember you. You're the fellow we should think about when the parades file past and the bugles echo softly over the cemeteries, mister. Because you're the guy who represents those who hope to fix all this—so that sometime in the future we can call ourselves civilized and really mean it.

We in Korea need your help every hour and every day—and I wish you know how badly we need it. But we're committed (as they say it back in the strategy tents) and our share for America in this "winning of the peace" is already written.

NOTHING CAN ever change that, and the knowledge is probably what keeps us going—plus the thought that we're holding the line to give you folks a chance to debate and figure things out.

Why not start some serious figuring then, mister, on this "Armistice Day" of 1952? If not for yourselves in the months or years just ahead, then at least for the kids you see around you—the boys "next in line."

So, as a last line in this letter that I'll never get a chance to send (little by little, you know, your fingers feel funny and the light gets bad), let's join with that thought.

Maybe each year on Nov. 11 we've been remembering the wrong people huh? Wouldn't that be a laugh? Maybe, instead of talking a lot on that day how to remember the troops who paid the price, we should pay a lot more attention to those who have yet to find a solution for it all!

Maybe then, mister, we can start something new—you, me and all the others in the world who care and are able to help—if we start looking more to the future while holding reverence for the past.

Maybe, while we stand in silent tribute to the fallen, it might help just a little if we say for ourselves:

God show us the way, the right from the wrong, and the difference between patriotism for pay and patriotism with a soul. And then, God, while you're at it, please give us—all of us—the guts to be human beings!

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Nov. 10 — (AP)—A 37-year-old woman lay injured for 29 hours in the rain and cold beside her wrecked car, which had plunged 200 feet down into a canyon.

Mrs. Britta S. England was discovered Sunday by two hikers. She was hospitalized with head injuries and possible fractures. Mrs. England didn't recall how her car skidded off the wet highway and tumbled into Topanga Canyon.

Farley Appeals For No Sniping

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 — (AP)—Former Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley has appealed to both Republicans and Democrats to give President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower "a chance to make good."

Farley said over the weekend he hoped "our men in the Senate don't start off by needling him or being mean and petty."

Here is the Best List of Carpets Griffith's Have Ever Offered!

The Prices and Quality Will Positively Amaze You!

We really believe this is the best group of carpets we have ever been able to assemble for our customers. We think you too will be amazed when you see them. You can tell the great savings when you check the list, but wait until you see how fine rugs they are, and from the biggest carpet mills in the world.

A few are listed as irregulars, but we have laid them out and carefully checked them and can definitely OK them. We notice the big stores in all the big cities, and we mean the good stores, buy all they can get to sell in all lines, so we've been getting them for our customers too!

Most of these rugs listed are the very finest carpets and a person might hesitate to buy such a fine carpet, due to the price but when you can get the best at down to earth prices, we knew you would be interested.

We invite you to get out your yardstick, measure up your rooms, check the list and see if we can save you some money too, like we have for so many people these past few months.

Hi Mister! Just Another Armistice Day Letter—Never Sent

Maybe Theme Needs Switch, Hero Suggests

Soldiers Do Share, But Civilians Fail To Hold Peace

By ED McCANN
Herald Staff Writer

Hi Mister!

I know that's probably not the correct way for a guy to greet a stranger—no introduction nor anything like that. But to tell you the truth it seems a long time since they taught us those things back home. Korea can make you forget an awful lot; the nice, and clean and the decent little things.

But then too, I guess it doesn't really matter anyway. You don't have a name all your own, because you're just the average civilian back home in the States. And as for me, the name wouldn't matter either. Addresses? Who cares? Call it Pickaway County, Philadelphia, Omaha or San Diego—or along any one of those millions of rural routes where home begins at a swinging gate or just beyond a big oak where the mail box hangs.

They'll probably tag me just the Unknown Soldier of the Korean War. And this letter will just be one of those I never had a chance to send. You can be sure I ain't about to send it, mister. A guy can tell, you know.

DID I USE the word "war," mister? Forgive it. I understand on the official books it can't rate that bad yet. They tell us over here it's still just a "police action" or something of the sort. All this death and misery up and down this stinking country, from Pusan to the Yalu, is still unofficial, I know.

Pardon us, mister, if now and then we forget it.

Forgive it too, if I seem to forget the girls—young and old—when I write you this. Somehow I know they'll read over your shoulder, and anyway it just doesn't come under the heading for women. All over the world, of course, Uncle Sam has great little kids proving the women folk have courage too. But just for now, mister, this will be only between us guys—you and me.

Every year since the boys came home from "Over There"

In 1918 it's been a custom around Nov. 11 for you all who live to remember those who gave all a fellow can. Somebody who meant well called it "Armistice Day."

We've had a lot of living since the years when they talked about the Argonne, St. Mihiel and all the others the doughboys know. There was a whole new set of names yet to come for the GI's—Casablanca, Anzio, the Rapido, Omaha beach, to name but a few.

And now, 34 years after that "Armistice Day" we mentioned, we're trying to learn how to spell and pronounce Taegu, Inchon, Seoul and a lot of others.

IN OTHER words, mister, it seems we keep talking about "Armistice Day" but only change the names of the places and the boys on the latest honor rolls around the town. Maybe we need a switch this year, I figure, and that's why I decided on this note—if I can get it finished.

On this "Armistice Day" of 1952, mister, let's turn it around. I'll be remembering you—and you in turn think of the troops who have yet to march in the years ahead.

Somehow it seems a better idea in view of the way things have been going, you know. At least it might bring better results. And that we need, mister.

Don't get me wrong through, either. It isn't being bitter—not really when you sit down and think. Sure a lot of us over here gripe, howl and swear at the things we hear and read about back in the States.

We know a lot of folks still smile at that gag on how soldiers always complain. So few seem to remember that in wartime soldiers really have something to complain about.

We know how the blood donations lag. We think of it especially in the front line aid stations while we're lining up the kids for their transfusions, the ones who lay white and still—and those who chew the edges of their blankets and cry only with their eyes.

WE KNOW how it feels to read how this congressman got up and said this, and that senator called in reporters and said that. And how they all get together at election time to demand that something definite be done about Korea.

We know the anxiety at our end on whether Christmas packages will be mailed on time back in the states. And the silent prayers we say every time the mail from home arrives.

Sure, mister, we know the good and the bad. Better even than you,

we can see over the thousands of miles and spot the fakers and the faithful all around you; the real people of America—who will never forget us, and those who—in their small, tight-fisted and bullheaded lives—will never forget themselves.

It's a real education of a kind no civilian can ever have, mister. And the advanced courses are in session now in Korea.

No matter how hard you try, back there where Heaven begins with Frisco—no matter how true your heart aims—you can't know the lessons the troops learn the hard way.

No matter how old he is, you know, a man learns a lot of things he never thought of before when he has to fight off overwhelming sleep all through a crippling cold night to make sure he's still alive by dawn. You can get a lifetime education within a few hours while hiding in slime and human decay, and listening to something or somebody crawl closer and closer a few yards away.

THERE'S a chance to think as nobody in the States can think when you're alone with a lighted candle at some forgotten hole in the Korean mountains, while the early winter winds struggle with the tarp at the doorway and the shadows on the muddy walls fashion lonesome dreams.

No professors or university libraries can help a man much when the darkness is suddenly split wide open by the scream, flash and flare of a midnight attack. No rules we brought with us over here seemed to apply when you have to sit for long hours through the day and pretend to carry on a conversation with a buddy you don't dare look at in the same shell hole.

I'll be easy on the details, mister, because I know some of them you can learn in almost any morgue or undertaking parlor—some of them, that is. And I think you get the point anyway.

But you see what I mean when I say we ain't really bitter when we finally get a chance to sit down and think. We couldn't be truly bitter, mister, because we've learned far ahead of what you know—and how bitterness, in the end, never really cures anything.

That's why, on this "Armistice Day" of 1952, I want to turn things around and remember you. You're the fellow we should think about when the parades file past and the bugles echo softly over the cemeteries, mister. Because you're the guy who represents those who hope to fix all this—so that sometime in the future we can call ourselves civilized and really mean it.

We in Korea need your help every hour and every day—and I wish you know how badly we need it. But we're committed (as they say it back in the strategy tents) and our share for America in this "winning of the peace" is already written.

NOTHING CAN ever change that, and the knowledge is probably what keeps us going—plus the thought that we're holding the line to give you folks a chance to debate and figure things out.

Why not start some serious figuring then, mister, on this "Armistice Day" of 1952? If not for yourselves in the months or years just ahead, then at least for the kids you see around you—the boys "next in line."

So, as a last line in this letter that I'll never get a chance to send (little by little, you know, your fingers feel funny and the light gets bad), let's join with that thought.

Maybe each year on Nov. 11 we've been remembering the wrong people huh? Wouldn't that be a laugh? Maybe, instead of talking a lot on that day how to remember the troops who paid the price, we should pay a lot more attention to those who have yet to find a solution for it all!

Maybe then, mister, we can start something new—you, me and all the others in the world who care and are able to help—if we start looking more to the future while holding reverence for the past.

Maybe, while we stand in silent tribute to the fallen, it might help just a little if we say for ourselves:

God show us the way, the right from the wrong, and the difference between patriotism for pay and patriotism with a soul. And then, God, while you're at it, please give us—all of us—the guts to be human beings!
